Jolt Beats Jigger

LONDON (AP) — A British medical magazine suggests it might be a good idea to legalize the use of marijuana.

Possession and importation of marijuana are against the law in Britain, where it is listed as a dangerous drug. Taking issue with this legal view, the medical magazine, The Lancet, asserts in its latest issue that the effects of marijuana are probably no worse than those of alcohol, if as bad. At least, it won't give you cirrhosis of the liver.

"Its effect is almost certainly not addictive within current official definitions of the world."

There was joy for the 11 men hauled up alive through an escape shaft skilfully drilled down through 185 feet of treacherous rock and earth to the "tomb" where they had spent two weeks trapped by a flood in an iron ore mine.

There were compliments and hearty slaps on the back for two miner-volunteers. Despite the danger of rockfalls, they went down the shaft to help

'Quizzed Like Criminal'

By DON GAIN

Eartha Kitt says she will never enter Canada through the port of Victoria again. The singer passed through Patricia Bay airport Tuesday morning on her way to a supper club engagement in Vancouver. Yesterday at a press conference in Vancouver she complained about treatment by an immigration officer at Victoria.

"He quizzed me as though I was a criminal," she said. "He wanted to know what I was going to do in Canada, how long I would be working and how much money I would be making."

"He was not rude, but very officious. I have never encountered anything like it at any border and I have visited most countries in the world."

Head immigration officer

Harry Tobin at Sidney said last night that he was sorry Miss Kitt felt the way she did about Victoria, but there was no reason for her to feel that way.

"I have thoroughly investigated this situation," he said.

"and I find that she and her party had only a regular routine customs and immigration examination. This apparently was resented by Miss Kitt and her party."

"I think they resented having to go through it."

HOME LOSES ONE

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's Conservative government lost a seat in Parliament Thursday in a byelection that boosted the opposition Labor Party's political prospects.

Labor candidate Will Howie, running in the Bedfordshire industrial city of Luton, was elected by a handsome margin, while Sir Alec himself was running for a seat in Parliament in the heavily Conservative Scottish country district of Kinross-West Perthshire.

NO DANGER

Results in the riding where the recently appointed prime minister is running will not be announced until this morning. He was not regarded as in any danger of defeat, but the margin of his victory will be taken as a barometer of the Conservative party's political popularity.

Howie, the winner in Luton, in central England, had a margin of 3,719 votes over Conservative John Fletcher-Cooke.

WINS HANDILY

Howie polled 21,108 votes to 17,359 for Fletcher-Cooke. Liberal candidate Malvern Benjamin received 5,001 votes and the Communist party candidate, Dr. Anthony Chater, polled 490.

In the 1959 general election, Dr. Charles Hill, running as a "Liberal and Conservative" candidate, polled 27,153 votes to 22,131 for Labor candidate C. R. Fenton.

DISTRIBUTION

With the Luton decision, distribution of seats in the 630-seat House of Commons now becomes: Conservatives and allies 338, Labor 238, Liberals 7, independents 1, vacant 6.

The Conservative loss at Luton was interpreted by many observers as a shot in the arm to the Labor party and seemed to rule out any chances of a snap general election being called by the Conservative government in the near future.

NOON TODAY

But the complete picture of Thursday's voting and its ramifications will not be known until the results in Kinross-West Perthshire are disclosed at about noon today.

Big Jump Likely In Lung Cancer

TORONTO (CP) — Lung cancer in women will increase alarmingly in the next 10 years, a United States cancer researcher predicted Wednesday night.

Dr. Oscar Auerbach supported his theory with the fact that the modern girl is "smoking prolifically and inhaling."

The doctor, associate professor of pathology at New York Medical College, said five times more men than women die of lung cancer, but the disease is increasing among women.

Dr. Auerbach said smoking was a major cause of lung cancer, would be widely accepted if the cigarette industry did not have so much money riding on the continued and increasing use of tobacco.

Car Victim Brought To Victoria

DUNCAN — A man knocked down by a car near Jubilee and Government here last night was rushed to King's Daughters Hospital and later transferred to St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria.

Cy Dougan, about 70, of Oxbow Hill, was apparently crossing the street when he was hit by a car which police said was driven by William Robinson of Duncan.

Arrive in Canada

Survivors of Crash Praise Plane Crew

MONTREAL (CP)—Sixty-four passengers who walked away unhurt from the crash of a TCA jet airliner in London arrived in Montreal by air Thursday night.

Many expressed praise for the crew of the crashed DC-8 and gratitude for a lucky escape when they entered a lounge at Montreal's International Airport shortly after 7:15 p.m. Their substitute aircraft landed just before 7 p.m.

The 34 Montrealeers aboard were welcomed enthusiastically by relatives and friends.

Thomas E. Taylor of Vancouver said he was "glad to get out in one piece."

"I landed in a cabbage patch with a couple of dogs, 11 canaries and a cat," he said. "It shook me up a little but everyone was cool and calm and there was no panic."

ACHES AND PAINS

"Lots of the passengers are feeling their aches and pains today,"

BOTTLE FOR BABY

Just moments before the crash, a stewardess had brought in a bottle of milk for a baby seated just ahead of him.

"When the plane hit, the husband said 'oh the baby.' His wife was saying 'let me get out, let me get out with the baby!'"

APPLIED BRAKES

Bert Seaman of Port Arthur, Ont., said the first indication passengers had of the impending crash came after the aircraft hit a big patch of fog on takeoff. The pilot applied the brakes and reversed the engines.

"We knew we were coming down somewhere," Mr. Seaman said. "Thank God we hit the cabbage patch."

"I feel lucky to be down in one piece."

Spirit of Moscow Missing?

Mr. K Beats U.S. with Olive Branch

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev glibly said often at the United States in toasts at a Kremlin reception Thursday night that U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler questioned him about it.

"Where is the spirit of Moscow?" Kohler asked calmly. "I don't hear any of it. I haven't heard any toasts I could drink to."

Khrushchev looked somewhat startled. He turned to Kohler and asked him to offer a toast. Kohler declined the invitation, saying it was Khrushchev's party.

"The American ambassador refuses to make a toast," he said.

"The spirit of Moscow is the spirit of peace with all countries who want to live with us... I drink a toast to the spirit of Moscow, peace for all the world."

The exchange came at a gathering of about 2,000 in the congress hall celebrating the 46th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution. Khrushchev told the gathering the Soviet Union will become the world's No.

1 nation in seven years. He warned that an American attack on Cuba would bring retaliation against U.S. allies closest to Russia. He said he is sure there eventually will be an agreement to heal the rift between the Soviet Union and Red China.

"If the capitalist world raises weapons against us, you will see what will happen," he said.

His forecast on the rise of the Soviet Union to world supremacy was made in his opening toast:

"From a poor country we have come a long way to become the second country in the world. We give capitalism another seven years, then we will be first. It is as inevitable as the sunrise. There is no doubt about it."

As to "the spirit of Moscow," the reference was to the atmosphere of amity that marked conclusion of the Soviet-U.S.-British negotiations in the Soviet capital last July on a treaty banning all nuclear tests except those underground.

Though Khrushchev held out olive branches to Peking, he ignored the Communist Chinese ambassador, Pan Tsu-li.

Didn't Retreat One Inch On Berlin, Says Rusk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk emphasized Thursday that the United States considers that it did not retreat a single inch in this week's dispute with Russia over procedures on the Berlin highway. (See also Page 3)

Rusk told reporters that despite what Soviet Premier Khrushchev may say, "our convoy went through in exact accordance with procedures that have been in effect a long time."

The adherence to, or deviation from, such seemingly trivial details as whether a troop carrier tailgate is lowered to help the Russians count the men inside is considered vital by diplomats. A change in procedures could conceivably lead to a breakdown of the position of one side or the other in Berlin.

"We cannot accept any change in procedures on the autobahn," Rusk said.

South Viet Nam

U.S., Britain Give Blessings to Regime

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has recognized the new provisional government of South Viet Nam, the state department announced Thursday. (See also Page 3.)

The move followed by one day a request from the new military-backed regime for a continuation and strengthening of relations between the two countries.

U.S. officials said that consultations on all U.S. aid programs to South Viet Nam will take place in Saigon with the appropriate officials of the government.

AID SLOWED

Important aid programs had been slowed down during the last month of President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime which fell in a military coup last Friday.

Jobless Senators Get 10-Day Layoff

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Senate that could come before the House Thursday to adjourn until Tuesday, Nov. 19, because the Commons hasn't given it anything to do.

However, if the Commons approves the budget's amendments to the Income Tax Act by Friday night, the Senate will meet as usual next Tuesday to consider this legislation.

Senator W. Ross Macdonald, government leader, said the tax amendments are stalled in the Commons and he did not anticipate early approval. The amendments were the only immediate government business.

Minuteman Runs Wild Blown Up

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — A minuteman instant ICBM veered wildly out of control and was blown up a scant few hundred feet above Cape Canaveral yesterday, raining fiery wreckage over the missile test centre.

Chunks of solid-propellant, burning furiously, touched off fires over a dozen spots on the 15,000-acre Moonport U.S.A.

The air force speedily announced there were no personal injuries as a result of the spectacular, multi-million-dollar failure. Most of the wreckage appeared to have fallen in unoccupied areas of the cape.

He told an interviewer that waitresses are generally paid 80 cents to $1 an hour compared to the union scale of $1.42.

Many of the girls are "moonlighters," holding one job during the day and working as waitresses at night. Hotels are hiring the girls,

Mme. Nhu Well Heeled

WASHINGTON (AP) — A qualified source close to Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu's family yesterday described the former "first lady" of South Viet Nam as a clever businesswoman with ample financial resources in other countries, including a villa on the French Riviera.

Reports from Los Angeles said Mme. Nhu was deeply concerned about her financial outlook. This was greeted with some scepticism by the source.

Diem, Nhu Buried Assets Face Seizure

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Secret burial of former president Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother Nhu was disclosed Thursday as revolutionary authorities took steps to seize properties of the fallen dynasty and perhaps those of some associates.

The bodies of Diem and Nhu, whom the government has called accidental suicides, were buried in secrecy Wednesday in a small military cemetery outside Saigon, a relative said.

CEMETERY GUARDED

The cemetery was under close guard and the funeral was not announced by any official source. But confirmation that burial took place came from Mme. Tran Trung Dung, niece of Diem. The bodies had been turned over to her family for burial.

New Berlin Crisis Foreseen

BERLIN (UPI) — The Russians yesterday swiftly passed a small, U.S. autobahn convoy but allied officials said another international incident was possible within days when the West sends a larger unit to Berlin.

The Western allies are expected to send the larger convoy to the divided city, probably today or Saturday.

PASSED THROUGH

Yesterday's convoy of 22 men in 10 vehicles passed through checkpoints at each end of the 110-mile highway through East Germany without incident. Twenty men drivers or co-drivers.

But it was so small it represented no test of Soviet intentions. The Russians never have demanded that convoys composed almost exclusively of drivers and co-drivers leave their vehicles to be counted.

TWO PASSENGERS

The convoy carried only two passengers. The American convoy released Wednesday after a 41-hour holdup carried 20.

The Americans, British and French in identical notes demanded that the Soviet Union

"end once and for all" halts movement of convoys.

But Soviet Premier Khrushchev earlier Wednesday told a group of visiting American businessmen convoys would be held up in the future," he said.

East German Communists yesterday indicated the Russians again will try to force allied soldiers to dismount from their trucks.

France Proud of Its Atom Bombs, Ready to Begin Second Phase

PARIS (UPI) — Defence Minister Pierre Messmer told the National Assembly yesterday that France's first generation of atomic weapons is a reality now and that the nation will ignore any objections about developing the next ones.

He spoke in debate after the deputies were told that President de Gaulle's independent nuclear strike force will cost nearly one-fourth more than originally estimated.

Messmer said priority had been given to strategic nuclear armament. He reported that production of atomic bombs began in the middle of this year and will be developed even more next year.

There was no financial, technical or military obstacle to development of the first generation nuclear force which consists of the atomic bomb, the Mirage IV bomber to carry it and the U.S. KC135 tanker to refuel the bombers in air. He revealed development of the strategic nuclear force will cost $837,000,000.

At the same time, the government is spending large sums of money trying to find more jobs for men.

The female is throwing men out of work because she is an attraction and costs the employer less.

A Farcical Course

ONCE AGAIN the minority Liberal government has survived with comparative ease two successive motions of non-confidence against it — the 10th and 11th of the present session.

The only remarkable thing in these latest Liberal victories is that they reveal the obvious determination of all of the opposition parties to continue to word their non-confidence motions in such a way that they are completely unpalatable to nearly all but their own partisan group — thus conveniently avoiding any danger of toppling Mr. Pearson's government.

As though these farcical demonstrations of in-house politicking were not enough, the high rate of absenteeism among members of Parliament continues unabated.

In one of Tuesday's votes the NDP motion was defeated 118 to 92—indicating that 35 members were either not present in the Commons or did not deign to register an opinion.

Later, the Conservative motion was rejected by 123 to 75 — with only 198 members out of 265 standing up to be counted. Of the remaining 67, the NDP team refused to vote at all with another 50 members presumably somewhere else.

It is interesting and a little disturbing to note that 20 of the 93 Conservative members alone were not in the House when their own party's motion was put.

If the opposition parties have decided that they will not seriously attempt to defeat the government on its questionable policies — why don't they leave it alone to get on with its job of governing the country instead of wasting everyone's time and weakening their own integrity in the eyes of the public by following this futile and insincere course of action?

Good for Santa

SANTA CLAUS, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce which has persuaded the jolly old gentleman to make a single entry into Victoria this year on the next-to-last Saturday of November in the form of a parade with nursery rhyme floats and clowns and candy canes and balloons, are to be complimented on working out this arrangement. So are the merchants in whose stores Santa will then, and not before then, lend his ear to young confidences.

Not only will this do away with competitively, and as many think, prematurely early arrival, but it will give the city a welcome spectacle also, a new delight for the children.

Of course Christmas activity is already well in progress on the mercantile scene and in most homes; in some senses the time is all too short for preparations before the day arrives. But in the past one has been apt to grow a little too familiar with Saint Nick when he has made separate arrivals, in magical triplicate or quadruplicate or more, a full five weeks in advance of his gift-laden tour of chimneys. A month will be plenty for him to find out what every Jane and Billy would like to find under the tree.

Likewise with Christmas music, which as a steady diet for shoppers too long before Christmas has a satiating effect. This year the major stores and shopping centres have agreed not to use it until December, a commendable step which will earn the gratitude of most Victorians.

The wonderful excitement of Yuletide will hardly be lessened by this abbreviation of the jingle bells season. It will just be more concentrated, and to most of us, more pleasant.

The Towaway Plan

WITH ONE difference from the systems used in some cities, Victoria appears to be about to institute a plan to have cars parked in restricted zones in the rush hour towed away at the owners' expense. The difference is that sometimes elsewhere the towaway trucks go out looking for offenders when the period of prohibition begins; in Victoria the public works committee's recommendation is that they be called at the discretion of the police.

If the plan is adopted and the committee's suggestion accepted, it is to be hoped that the constables will not use their power of decision too liberally or forgivingly. They themselves probably would rather escape this invidious direction, and if so, small wonder. Human nature is strangely capable of simultaneously desiring the exercise of authority and resenting it, and the policemen in this instance—not the council, nor the police commission, nor the towaway firm—undoubtedly will bear the brunt of both feelings. They will be tyrants if they order cars removed, derelict in their duty if they don't, and suspected of favoritism if they steer a hit and miss course. Nor will they even gain credit for clearing home-bound traffic lanes efficiently if violations are numerous and each car has to be subject to separate take-it-away order.

Nevertheless the measure of public antipathy that may be their lot under these circumstances — no matter how unreasonably — can surely be diminished if they swallow the medicine quickly; there will not be many second offences through carelessness or by calculated risk, one would think, after drivers have once experienced the cost and inconvenience of ransoming their cars as well as paying fines.

With all sympathy for the genuinely forgetful and for those who are prevented by unforeseeable circumstances from getting back to their cars in time, it must be suggested that the public interest — including retention of respect for the law — would be best served by energetic application of the new system from the start.

The Big City

MR. NESBITT: I have no objection to the city of Toronto. I am very fond of it; I received part of my education there, and I like the city and its people. But I think he (Mr. Gordon) could hardly object to the proposition that it is socially desirable to prevent a city from getting too large, a condition which breeds all sorts of undesirable things.

Mr. Gordon: Would the hon. member permit a question from one who happens to come from Toronto. I am sure he did not mean to imply that it was socially undesirable for people to live in Toronto, did he?

Mr. Nesbitt: That all depends, Mr. Speaker, on what one might think was socially undesirable . . .

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and scaling wags . . ."

By TOM TAYLOR

DO your porridge instead of salt? If you do I hope you don't read Cassandra on this page today. You'll have the shade of his Uncle Ezekiel haunting your every breakfast.

Porridge, to his uncle, was a delicacy to be approached with reverence, and Cassandra leaves you to guess, maybe, to be washed down with whisky.

And presumably the real malt mackay at that. Without ice, another of the epicurean heresies.

I half expected Cassandra would work in the didd-broide about oats being food for horses in Angleland and men in Scotia, and I'm sorry he didn't. That would have given me excuse for the standing rebuttal:

"Whauid will ye find a' horses or sic men?"

But then there's oatmeal in Cassandra's veins too; Uncle Ezekiel, he tells us, was an Aberdonian.

He doesn't say exactly either, that uncle stood up to his porridge as befitting the dignity of "them," the ancient ritualistic nomenclature of this succulent breakfast dish. The tribal wars had ended in his day, for of course the clansman ate his porridge standing. In a hurry, his claymore handy in case the fiery cross caught him in the midst of a spoonful.

There's the omission of the spurtle as well. And surely no devotee of Uncle Ezekiel's type would eat porridge that hadn't been stirred with the traditional foot-long wooden stick.

That would be even more heinous than syrup or sugar. A spurtle it is, you see, that puts the magic in oatmeal, just like the water that transformed Uncle Ezekiel's whisky. The water of the burn, that is, not the kind liquor boards are alleged to favor.

Another thing in case you're not too familiar with porridge and prefer those dedicated substitutes sold in paper bags. You don't pour milk on your porridge once you've emptied some from the pot into your bowl. It won't be a wooden bowl although it should be if the site is properly conducted, now, I suppose, do you use a horn spoon, as presumably Uncle Ezekiel did.

No, the milk should be in a separate bowl, and porridge and milk sopped turn about.

Incidentally this method of eating porridge also is worth your adoption.

I hope also you never reverse the process of trickling the oatmeal into the boiling water; that makes brose, which isn't quite the same thing. Brose is very nutritious however, I believe, and if you're a fancy for trying it of a Sabbath morn add a small nut of butter.

Then it becomes, as it is called, "Sunday Brose."

Fattening the theme as it will your frame there's "Pease Brose," too, to tickle your palate if you've a mind for it. As the name sounds you make it with peasemeal.

But whatever you favor for your morning filip remember always, as Uncle Ezekiel would say, with look in his eye enough to strike you stone dead, that you don't pour sugar, syrup, treacle or jam on a sacred dish of porridge.

After all of which, I'm afraid, I should apologize to Cassandra, or to the shades of his uncle. I don't eat porridge as a regular diet, nor do I follow the advice set forth above for your general edification.

And, confounding my heretical sins, I like to sprinkle sugar on it.

But then I belong to the can break the precedents with absolutism.

"Of course we know what we're doing. By sacrificing you, we're preserving you."

Fears of a Settlement

By NEAL AMMERSON
from Bonn

IT was a dim and blameless other night, which suddenly exploded in uproar. For its eighth East European Seminar, the town had chosen a public discussion on the subject, "An Understanding with Poland — but How?" Two Polish journalists working in Bonn were among those on the platform. So was a West Berlin professor, an expert in East European affairs. An apparently worthy audience filled the hall.

Things began quietly. Then the two Polish correspondents rose. As they expressed their view that acceptance of the present Oder-Neisse frontier was "an obvious precondition of peace," a frightful pandemonium began.

All over the hall, men rose and began to distribute a pamphlet called "Posener Tageblatt," the title of a Nazi paper printed in occupied Poland. There were yells of "Poles, get out!" Later the professor from Berlin renewed the trouble when he agreed with the two Poles that the Oder-Neisse line would have to be accepted. "Traitors!" and "You are no Germans!" bellowed the hecklers, who went on to accuse the Poles of shooting German settlers.

This was too much for one correspondent, who jumped up and observed that he had fought in the Polish resistance for five years and would tell the audience a thing or two about Germans and shootings. An appalled silence fell.

This interruption, it seems, was engineered by the Deutsche Reichspartei, a neo-Nazi faction. Afterwards, the organizers of the meeting offered broken apologies to the Poles. But Poles can generally look after themselves; pity is better spent on the organizers themselves and on the majority of the audience who sat in wretched silence while the hecklers ruined their evening.

They had hoped to bear witness to an important truth: that a growing number of Germans want a reconciliation with Poland and are prepared to look on the loss of the old German east as a tragic but irreversible fact. Though they don't admit it in public, most German politicians know that if they set out for a peace conference intending to regain those lost lands, they might as well save themselves the price of the ticket.

Young people, intensely interested in new Polish films, music and writing, push publicly for exchange visits with Polish students.

However, it takes two to make a reconciliation, and the Poles are in no hurry. All they want at present from Bonn is recognition of the Oder-Neisse frontier: the next move is Germany's, they feel, and until she makes it, the Polish government merely waits and passes the time by sniping at the "reactionaries" of West German refugee leaders and of the politicians who dare not defy them. The West Germans, who this year set up a trade mission in Warsaw, resent this passivity.

But Polish caution towards Germany runs even deeper than the memories of war and occupation. West Germany is eternally complaining—that President Kennedy and Mr. Khrushchev are preparing to make a European deal "over Germany's head"; this is just what the Poles fear, too. Bonn dreads an imposed settlement which would recognize the two Germanys as separate states. Warsaw worries about the other possibility: reunification of Germany through a Russian abandonment of the East German regime of Herr Ulbricht.

Suppose Mr. Khrushchev decides to cut his losses in East Germany and leave the Ulbricht regime to its inevitable fate at the hands of its subjects. The largest state in Europe springs out of the ashes as Poland's neighbor: a united capitalist Germany with claims on Polish territory. Even if a German peace treaty had already recognized the narrow grey stream of the Oder as the frontier, the Poles would still feel unsafe.

Here lies an unborn disagreement between Poland and the Soviet Union. Poland would like a European settlement which recognized a two-state Germany: this is why such a fuse was made in Warsaw about Herr Ulbricht's visit a few weeks ago. Russia, the Poles may have hoped, would be reminded that the existence of the German Democratic Republic is a vital interest of Poland.

But the Russians, if they could choose, would almost certainly prefer a reunified and neutral Germany on good terms with Russia to recognition of two German states. The status quo in Germany is Moscow's second best solution. And Poles know all too well what provides the traditional cement of Russo-German friendship—their own territory.

European Boom

Cracks Widen

By DAVID GRENIER

THE cracks that first began to appear in Western Europe's economic boom two or three years ago have begun to widen. The foundations of the boom haven't yet been damaged, but it's becoming increasingly difficult to paper over the rifts and flaws.

In France, the government has been forced to adopt an austerity program to combat the upward spiral of prices.

In Italy, too, the government has had to act against inflation. Not so widely advertised (though equally real), have been the problems of Holland. There, wage stability is being seriously questioned for the first time since the end of the Second World War.

The problems in Holland, as elsewhere in Europe, are the problems of overeating rather than under-nourishment. There are more jobs vacant than there are unemployed. The demand for consumer goods is strong, and the labor force is becoming restive about wage restraint.

Up to now, Holland has been regarded as the model for co-operation between labor, management and government, with the concept of linking wages to productivity probably better established than in other European countries.

Now this balance has been upset. For the whole of 1963, for instance, wages and social charges are expected to rise by seven per cent. But the increase in productivity is only expected to be in the neighborhood of 1.5 to two per cent. As a result wage costs per unit of output will be five per cent higher this year. And this will mean higher prices, both for consumer and for capital goods.

The Dutch Central Planning Bureau is even projecting further increases in wage costs next year, though the increases are not expected to be as large as in 1963.

One consequence of the new pressure for higher wages has been that labor's share of the national income has risen. This year, it's expected to amount to 72 per cent of national income, compared with 67 per cent only three years ago.

That means business profits are likely being squeezed, as well as farm income and earnings of small businessmen and Dutch self-employed people. It could spell trouble for the kind of investment needed to create new jobs and higher productivity.

Because Holland is dependent on exports — to an even greater extent than Canada — its industry must be competitive. This ability to compete is now being challenged.

How the Dutch respond to the problem will provide a clue as to how close an understanding there is between labor, management and government. But as things stand, the Dutch experience shows that even the best laid plans have a tendency to go awry. (Telegram News Service)

Sugar on Them? Never!

Uncle Ezekiel

By CASSANDRA from London

HE said Lady Douglas Home, "doesn't eat his porridge with salt standing up—that's more Highland than us."

"He" for your information, is Sir Alexander Frederick Douglas-Home, recent disclaimer of the Earldom of Home, the Lordship of Dunblane, the Lordship of Hume of Berwick, the Barony of Douglas, of Douglas in the County of Lanark, and the Barony of Hume of Berwick.

Lady Douglas-Home, during a catastrophic moment in an interview with some of the Girls of Fleet Street, also revealed that the prime minister puts "flashings of sugar" on his porridge.

Pause for deeply shocked silence.

What would my Uncle Ezekiel have thought about it?

Do you hear a sigh as the wind blows cold and chill through the Scottish firs?

Do you see the sun grow dim and a strange twilight fall upon the silent glens?

Do you see the heather shrivel and the Bluebells of Scotland hang their heads?

Back to my Uncle Ezekiel — and the appalling horror that arises wraith-like from his grave.

Uncle Ezekiel was an Aberdonian and, in all Caledonia, stern and wild, there is no fiercer or more canny strain. Sugar on porridge to Uncle Ezekiel — he had never heard of the barbarous custom — would have been like serving a hag with ice cream, candy floss and marachino cherries.

When, long ago, the sun went down in the summer evenings in Northern Scotland, where it is still twilight at midnight, my Uncle Ezekiel, who was a farmer and knew all about "hewin' neeps" — hoeing turnips to get to Sassenachs — he would take up the great hairy cluster of skin and tubes known as the bagpipes.

He would then march up and down in front of his ancient farmhouse near Old Meldrum playing for his own delectation and the lesser delectation of all in the "catterhouse" (no translation this time) and every living creature within a range of five miles.

No shadow of doubt ever crossed his rugged mind that to be born south of the Tay was to be effeminate, weak, fickle and wrong. He drank Scotch whisky on a heroic scale and privileged visitors — whom he regarded as transient friends unless he had known them for twenty years — would be invited to come down and see his cellar. It was full of empty whisky bottles, thousands of them. When the astonished visitor had seen one of the greatest collections of empties of all time, he would turn upon them and say with pride and joy:

Here lies an unborn disagreement between Poland and the Soviet Union. Poland would like a European settlement which recognized a two-state Germany: this is why such a fuse was made in Warsaw about Herr Ulbricht's visit a few weeks ago. Russia, the Poles may have hoped, would be reminded that the existence of the German Democratic Republic is a vital interest of Poland.

But the Russians, if they could choose, would almost certainly prefer a reunified and neutral Germany on good terms with Russia to recognition of two German states. The status quo in Germany is Moscow's second best solution. And Poles know all too well what provides the traditional cement of Russo-German friendship—their own territory.

I FEEL I must write to express my feelings about the many exhibitions of paintings I have seen in private galleries and in different large stores both in Vancouver and Victoria during the four years I have so far spent in British Columbia.

So many of these displays consist of sickly pretty oil paintings of mountain scenes bathed in a sugary peach-tinted sunset or waves breaking on a beach suffused with a pink light, making a sugaring effect. Any well-trained artist would deplore the poor technique and lack of paint quality in these third-rate paintings, which are being passed off as the works of well-known European artists and being imported in great masses. Also one notices that the more foreign-sounding the name, the better the sales value.

I do wish that the honest Canadian public could be persuaded to understand that there are numbers of well-trained and competent artists, many Canadian-born, who are painting the Canadian scene in a dedicated way. Their works are often fine pieces of artistry and can sometimes, even I dare say most times, be purchased at half the price of these pieces of charlatanry.

Book Gifts

Since our original appeal for books was made last March, Canadians have mailed so many books to Nigeria that it has been impossible to write everyone a personal letter of acknowledgement.

So far, 32 schools in Kano Emirate have received libraries of junior story books, magazines and teachers' reference books. Although more than 100 schools in the province are still waiting for books, we hope to gather enough books to supply them during the coming months.

We are particularly thankful to receive junior story books

"Willie" or Ian or Donald or whatever the name was — "I had drunk them asah!" In the middle of a dark confessional wood he had an old hansom cab minus the wheels.

Here Uncle Ezekiel read The Financial Times and worked out his next investment move. He played the market like the wussed fisherman who drew a salmon out of the River Spey and, in the silence of the forest, he grew rich.

He did not actually hate the English — but he certainly despised them.

And he loved porridge with a love that men other than my Uncle Ezekiel reserved for graceful, sultry women and for deep brooding wine.

For some strange reason he always referred to porridge as "them."

He would say: "Where are they?" meaning "Where is the porridge?"

The plurality I think referred to oats.

"They" would then be served to him in a great blue china bowl with a sprinkling of buttermilk and huge gritty chunks of salt which would lie like saline diamonds on the steaming beige plain of cooked oats.

I will not say that Uncle stood to attention as he ate "them," but his irreverent, uncompromising heart and his sturdy guts were deeply concerned with the matter.

Uncle Ezekiel had gone these many long years to the thistle-bedecked Valhalla where all the sons of Wallace and Bruce go.

But had he heard that a Laird from the Lowlands who had reached Number 10 Downing street took sugar with "them," he would have reached for his claymore and come roaring among the Blue Bonnets almost over the Border into Ettrick and Teviotdale.

I understand the Lady Douglas-Home keeps a scrapbook about things written concerning her husband which she started in 1928. "I have got everything in it that has happened," she says, "and it would break my heart if it had to stop."

May I respectfully offer her this contribution?

Fireworks

Well, the celebration of Halloween is over for another year, which gives us the chance to estimate the cost, and whether the risks are worth while. These explosive firecrackers appear in so many, especially the younger element, as quite harmless, but in the hands of juveniles they can cause terrible damage.

Last July 1 at Indian Head, Sask., in the finale of the Dominion Day celebrations, one man had to have his arm amputated and his assistant received the force of an explosion in his face, through a delayed fuse being investigated for 300.

In my opinion, there is too big an element of danger for youngsters for fireworks to be tolerated.

Animals Show Way to War Without Killing

Animals, from the hippopotamus to the ant, have, for various reasons, aggressive traits.

But the species which shows up worst in biological research on animal aggression is homo sapiens. Only in man is aggression so uncontrolled as to lead to wholesale killing within a species.

This human peculiarity is being increasingly studied by scientists, who compared notes at a recent Institute of Biology meeting in London on "the natural history of aggression."

Primitive man, it emerged, is no better than modern man; the Willigimian-Wallalua, of New Guinea, whose lives are "an unending round of death and revenge," reveal, according to one anthropologist, "the essentials of the pristine state of man."

Non-human animals are continually fighting other members of their own species, but except in very crowded conditions, or in captivity, they seldom kill one another.

"It is very difficult to find any examples of true overt fighting resulting in the death of the loser among mammals under normal conditions in the wild," said Dr. L. Harrison Matthews, scientific director of the London Zoo. "The weapons of wild animals are potentially so dangerous that fighting is ritualized into display, threat, and submission and appeasement, so that fights are generally no more than trials of strength followed by disengagement and rapid withdrawal by the weaker."

The fights between stags during the mating season, for example, are usually only antler-to-antler shoving matches in which the weaker animal concedes defeat and runs away before it gets hurt, and the ritual fighting of wolves ends with the weaker animal putting itself completely at the mercy of the other by rolling on its back and exposing its most vulnerable parts. But it is not normally killed.

In some animals the ritualizing process has gone so far that they never actually come to blows at all but simply threaten one another.

Clearly, aggression has a purpose in attacking other species or in defence against them, but what is the biological function of aggression and fighting within a species?

According to the eminent German animal behaviorist Dr. K. Lorenz, there are several. It helps to distribute the animals evenly over the available habitat, it selects the strongest to defend the family or herd, and it establishes social rank or a "pecking order" which ensures the rule of an experienced leader.

Because the fighting is ritualized the species does not destroy itself, and its evolutionary advantages far outweigh the occasional accidental death.

But why is human aggression more extreme than among animals? Stanislaw Andreski of the University of Ibadan ascribes it to a disbalance between technical ingenuity and moral awareness.

This, he said, is due to the technical level being fixed by the most gifted inventors, while the ethical level is determined by the least benevolent men, because of the way in which "the processes of selection for positions of authority favor ruthless power-seekers."

Since human aggression is so deep-seated, the only solution, said Dr. Anthony Storr, a London psychiatrist, was to find substitutes for war.

"Our only hope," he said, "is that we can continue war by other means than the primitive one of killing each other."

The ideal would probably be to copy those species which have ritualized aggression to the point of making threats without coming to blows.

Perhaps something of the sort has already been achieved with the cold war.

Chain Reaction of Discontent

Year of Unrest

By COLIN LEGUM
from London

The fall of President Hubert Maga's government in Dahomey is the latest link in a chain reaction of discontent that has been sweeping through French-speaking Africa. No fewer than seven of the 12 former French colonies which belong to the Union of African and Malagasy States have been involved in serious internal upheavals since last December.

The first to be convulsed by an internal crisis was Senegal, the "France of Africa" (pop. 2,550,000). At the end of last year there was a bitter struggle for power between the post-statesman President Leopold Senghor, and his tough, brilliant prime minister, Mamadou Dia. With the support of the army, the president won. Mamadou Dia is now serving a life sentence.

A month later—in early January, 1963—the president of Togo (pop. 2,000,000), Sylvanus Olympio, was assassinated by officers of his army. His principal opponent, Nicholas Grunitzky, returned from exile in Dahomey to take over power.

President Ahmadou Ahidjo in the Cameroun Republic (pop. 3,225,000), had all the prominent opposition leaders arrested on charges of plotting the armed overthrow of the administration. They were tried and sentenced to terms of imprisonment. He has also dismissed several of his ministers and has now installed a single-party regime.

Deep and old political tensions between the Muslim north and the non-Muslim south of the Chad Republic (pop. 3,000,000) broke into open conflict in September. This produced a state of emergency. Political power remained with the non-Muslim President Francois Tombalbaye. Several of the opposition leaders were sentenced to long terms of imprisonment, and a

Ombudsman Passes New Zealand Test

By J. C. GRAHAM
from Auckland

After a year of operation, the office of ombudsman in New Zealand is widely held to have proved itself justified.

The ombudsman, the only one in the Commonwealth, is based on the Scandinavian model. He investigates complaints by the public against actions of the government or public servants.

The government is so satisfied with the first year's experience that it is reviewing the legislation on the subject with a view to extending the ombudsman's powers.

The ombudsman himself, Sir Guy Powles, maintains that his inquiries have vindicated the public service against charges often made against it.

"There have been mistakes, carelessness, delay, rigidity, and perhaps heartlessness, but nothing really awful," he says. He had found no evidence of corruption or moral obliquity.

During the year, 776 complaints were submitted to the ombudsman. Many were outside his jurisdiction because he does not operate where normal grounds of appeal remain and he hasn't got powers to inquire into the activities of local bodies or other semi-public organizations.

After investigation, 54 complaints were held to have been justified. About half of these were immediately rectified by the departments or agencies concerned as soon as the matters were brought to their notice.

Anybody can make a complaint to the ombudsman simply by forwarding a fee of £1 and written submissions. There are no formal rules or elaborate forms. Initial investigations are made simply on the case made out by people in their own words. The chief extension of powers being considered by the government is to throw open local body operations to inquiry by the ombudsman.

"The weather will remain unsettled for the foreseeable future with mainly cloudy skies, partial clearing at times, with periods of rain and freshening winds," he said.

Temperatures of 35 to 40 degrees were predicted for overnight and about 50 degrees today.

Arms Cut Possible Without Agreement

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canadian-born Dr. Stephen Enke, one of the top military-economic brains in a Pentagon "think" factory, says there is prospect of some East-West disarmament taking place, even without signed agreements.

The 47-year-old native of Victoria, now assistant to the president of the Institute for Defence Analyses, was interviewed a few days before Premier Khrushchev announced Soviet withdrawal from the moon race.

TOO COSTLY?

Dr. Enke said indications were "that the Soviets are finding the armaments race, the moon race and the foreign assistance race too costly when added together."

These and other troubles, such as crop failures, may force the Soviets to curb their armament efforts in the hope that the U.S. and its allies will do the same, he said.

IMPLICIT BARGAIN?

"Without any explicit agreements, an implicit bargain may be reached in this way, although intense and bitter rivalry will continue in the Caribbean and other pivotal areas of the world."

Now on leave from Duke University where he is professor of economics, Dr. Enke has a top-secret clearance that gives him access to the inner sanctums of the Pentagon — U.S. defence headquarters.

He has completed intensive studies in the past on such vital subjects as strategic bomber planning, packaging of nuclear materials for nuclear weapons, and logistic support for intercontinental ballistic missiles.

This "think" factory, which advises the Pentagon on new weapons systems, was founded seven years ago to provide a secluded institute for an influential group of intellectuals, drawn from top U.S. universities and including famed physicists, economists, engineers and military operations analysts.

EDUCATED HERE

Dr. Enke, educated in Victoria as well as in Britain and the United States, became an American citizen in 1942. A man with many interests, he has written extensively on world economic affairs and has produced secret reports on target systems, strategic weapon systems, active and passive defence against air attack, and the economic use of fissionable materials.

He has sailed across the Atlantic and Pacific in small boats and climbed the 14,780-foot Matterhorn in Switzerland. At one time he flew his own family plane.

Married and the father of two children, Dr. Enke is a prime example of the export of Canadian brainpower. He still has his roots in Canada, however, and eventually may return to academic life and retirement on the west coast.

"Salmon return to their native streams and British Columbians come back in the end, however far they roam," he said.

City Nurses Take Courses

Seven nurses from the Victoria area have registered for a two-day review course in obstetrics at UBC, which ends today.

Registered are Sister Mary Elena, St. Joseph's Hospital; M. Morrow, M. E. Plunkett, both of Royal Jubilee, and Mrs. E. Oberg, Mrs. E. Shergold, Miss B. Short and Mrs. P. Thomson.

The course provides an opportunity for nurses to review recent developments and contemporary practice in obstetrical nursing.

Cholera Toll Reaches 230

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP)—More than 87 persons died of cholera in the Bogra district during the last three days, official sources said Thursday. The total death toll from cholera in the district during the last two weeks reached 230.

500 B.C. Socreds Attend New Westminster Parley

An estimated 500 Social Crediters from all over B.C. will converge on New Westminster today and Saturday for the annual meeting of the B.C. Social Credit League.

Special guests at the meeting will be national Socred leader Robert Thompson, Alberta Provincial Secretary Ambrose Holowach, and Chocoma MP Maurice Cote.

Mr. Thompson and Mr. Cote are scheduled to address the meeting later today.

The convention will deal with some 60 resolutions brought in by local constituency associations.

Meetings Today In Victoria

● Professor C. S. Burchill will deliver the second part of a talk on Red China and show slides on a Tourist in Red China today, at Oak Bay Junior High School, at 8 p.m.

● A variety program will be featured at a meeting of the Lions Club of Victoria in the Empress Hotel at 12 noon.

● The Victoria Short Wave Club will hold its annual meeting in the Orange Hall, 728 Courtney Street, at 8 p.m.

Hundreds Spared Blindness

At least 179 Canadians may be spared future blindness due to the actions of Greater Victoria citizens in willing their eyes to the Canadian Eye Bank.

The contributions were in response to an appeal by Mrs. Helen Harvey-Smith, 1778 Davie who is awaiting an operation to transplant healthy cornea in both eyes.

ALL PARTS

The cornea is transplanted immediately after the death of a donor, and are rushed from all parts of B.C.

Mrs. Harvey-Smith's donor has not yet been chosen. It will probably be someone from the Greater Victoria area.

Two Youths Rob Young Boy

Police are seeking two youths who robbed a 14-year-old boy of $7 Wednesday night.

David Hall, 1141 Palmer told police he was standing on the corner of Cook and Merritt about 8:30 p.m. when two youths, about 18 years old drove up in a black car. They knocked him down and took the money from his wallet after it had fallen from his pocket, he told police.

Hosts Sought For Visitors From Mexico

Volunteers will be sought Wednesday, to act as hosts to 20 Mexican students and professors who will be guests of the University of Victoria for one month starting Jan. 3.

Michael Hutchison, chairman of the students' council committee in charge of the visit, said that his group will meet Wednesday and make plans for the billeting of the students who will be here under the Experiment in International Living plan sponsored by a U.S. group.

LEADING GROUP

Heading the Mexican group is Miguel Beltram, 22-year-old architecture student from the University of Mexico.

TWO PROFESSORS

The group will include two professors, one of biology and the other of the university's new faculty of tourism, the only one of its kind in North America.

A number of Mexican students paid a two-day visit to the university earlier this year.

Polish Primate

ROME (AP)—Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński, Roman Catholic primate of Poland, was reported improving Thursday from a kidney ailment.

The 61-year-old prelate, attending the Vatican ecumenical council, was stricken Sunday.

Appeal Rejected

Theft by Boarder Brings Jail Term

A young but experienced criminal appealed for a chance to "go straight" yesterday in city court. He went straight to jail to begin serving a six-month sentence for theft of a television set.

Ronald William Kolochynski, no fixed address, was led cursing from the prisoner's dock after Magistrate William Ostler imposed the sentence. Kolochynski had pleaded not guilty.

BOARDER AT HOME

Mrs. Wilma Robinson, 773 Hillside, told the court Kolochynski had been a boarder at her home in August. She had entered a hospital for several days while her husband was also away from the home.

Mrs. Robinson said when she returned home, Kolochynski and the family TV set were missing and Kolochynski had later admitted taking the set.

It was recovered in a Victoria second-hand store. Kolochynski has a record for theft, breaking and entering and forgery, and has spent time in prison.

He offered yesterday to make restitution for the crime.

and said, "If I go to jail this time, I'll keep on going. This time I want to go straight." He will serve his term in Oakalla Prison Farm.

Convict Identified After 10 Years

VANCOUVER (CP) — A day in the B.C. Supreme Court Seattle housewife faced a heavily-guarded convict Thursday in the B.C. Supreme Court and named him as the man who fatally shot a policeman in a Seattle bank robbery 10 years ago.

Mrs. Mary Beattie identified Clifford Dawley, now serving an indefinite term in the B.C. penitentiary as a habitual criminal.

Dawley and the housewife were witnesses testifying at an extradition hearing launched by the United States government against John Wasylenchuk.

MURDER, ROBBERY Vancouver lawyer Hugh McGovern, representing the U.S. government in the action, said he was seeking Wasylenchuk's extradition on grounds that he is charged with murder and robbery in connection with the holdup.

Wasylenchuk was arrested three weeks ago in Vancouver after shooting three police officers with a handgun. He was charged with participating in the 1954 holdup of the Greenwood branch of the Seattle First National Bank.

Statement Withheld

Bizarre Upset Marks Wife-Slaying Trial

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The state won what may become an important point in the T. Eugene Thompson murder trial Thursday when the trial judge ruled the defence could not see a statement previously made by the prosecution witness.

When Judge Rolf Fosseen ordered Wednesday that prosecutor William Randall produce the statement, a bizarre sequence of events was touched off. Randall said he could not, the trial went into recess the rest of the day, and lawyers for both sides went into a closed-door meeting with five justices of the state supreme court, an appeals court.

TURNED DOWN The high-court justices did nothing officially. But when the trial resumed Thursday and defence counsel H. A. M. Segell again sought the document, Fosseen turned him down.

The witness, Floyd F. Peterson, a St. Paul insurance man, had been testifying about some of the $1,055,000 in insurance which the state says Thompson took out on his wife's life before she was murdered last March 6.

INSURANCE KILLING The state contends the St. Paul criminal lawyer paid a killer to have Mrs. Thompson slain for the insurance money and so he would be free to marry an-

Failing Recorder Fouls Suit

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — A mechanical recording device which failed to do its job has created confusion in a Yukon court case.

The story unfolded here Wednesday at the fall session of the Yukon territorial council during study of an ordinance which would permit mechanical recording devices in Yukon courts.

Council was told the judge and two lawyers in a breach of contract case agreed to experiment with a mechanical recording device even though the ordinance permitting use of such a device had not been approved.

The case — involving a suit by one construction company against a second — appeared to go smoothly. The judge awarded the successful company $29,000.

The loser decided to appeal but when it obtained a transcript of the four days of testimony in the case there was a six-hour blank. Unnoticed, the air and so is the ordinance the mechanical recorder had on recording devices. Council so far has failed to reach a decision on the matter.

War Dead Honored

By DON GAIN

First of the Greater Victoria remembrance ceremonies will take place today at 4:30 p.m. when Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes lays a wreath in the rotunda of the Legislative Buildings to honor civil servants who gave their lives in wartime.

The ceremonies will be attended by relatives and government officials, and the public is invited.

The annual service at Christ Church Cathedral will be held Sunday at 3 p.m., conducted by the Rev. Roy Houli and assisted by Rev. J. A. Watson and Rev. L. C. Streight. The Ven. A. E. Hendy, former R.N. chaplain, will give the address.

TO ATTEND
The service will be attended by Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes, Mayor R. B. and Mrs. Wilson, Rear Admiral and Mrs. W. M. Landymore, Assistant Commissioner D. O. Forrest, R.C.M.P., and Mrs. Forrest, and Royal Roads Commandant Capt. W. P. and Mrs. Hayes.

Victoria unit of the Nursing Sisters Association of Canada will meet in the lounge of the Empress Hotel at 10:15 a.m. Monday and will then join other veterans at the Cenotaph for the 11 a.m. service.

WELCOME GUESTS
At 1:30 p.m. they will meet in the Georgian Room of the hotel for registration, followed at 2 p.m. by their annual meeting and election of officers. At 3 p.m. they will welcome guests to their Re-Union Tea.

Patients at Veterans' Hospital will meet in their chapel at 10:30 a.m. for the Remembrance Day service. Friends and relatives will attend. Other veterans wishing to attend should phone Royal Canadian Legion zone commander James Mayzes at EV 4-7134 (day) or GR 7-1294 (night).

LANGFORD SERVICE
Also at 10:30 a.m. is the Langford service at the Royal Canadian Legion Prince Edward Branch No. 91 Hall on Dunford Road.

Mother-of-honor Mrs. Jessie Thornburn will lay a wreath at the Cenotaph at Langford where sentries will be provided by the navy, Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's), cadets from the RCAF and the Legion.

Here are times for other services Monday:

of 25 Militia Group will parade from Bay Street Armory, moving off at 10 a.m. They will be accompanied by the brass band of 5th Ind. Med. Battery, RCA, pipe band of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) and the bugle band of 80th Technical Squadron, RCME. They will join units of veterans and other services on Wharf Street near Government. Led by veterans, the 45-man HMCS Naden band and a naval contingent, they will parade across the Causeway to the Cenotaph.

Principals on the saluting stand will include Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore and Air Commodore R. C. Weston, RCAF.

Members of the three services and the RCMP will serve as sentries at the Cenotaph. Parade commander is Lt.-Cmdr. A. Shimmmin, RCN. The minute gun will be fired by 5th Ind. Med. Battery, RCA.

DETACHMENT
The 5th Ind. Med. Battery, RCA will supply a one-gun detachment for the two minutes silence. Parade padre Rev. J. A. Roberts. Representatives of bereaved mothers and widows, RCN, HMCS Malahat, Esquimalt Municipal.

Train Collision Injures Two

PORT HAWKESBURY, N.S. (CP)—Two railwaymen were slightly injured when two CNR westbound freight trains collided here Thursday. The crash resulted in a smashed caboose and the derailment of four cars and three diesel units.

Fliers Jump To Safety

WINNIPEG, Man. (UPI)—A Royal Canadian Air Force pilot instructor and a student pilot parachuted to safety yesterday after their T-33 jet trainer had an engine failure. Flying Officer J. M. Peacock, 23, of Moncton, N.B., and officer cadet J. H. Kistensen, 19, of Hovegaard, Denmark, escaped with bruises.

ity and 17 other organizations will lay wreaths.

The salute will be taken by Cmdr. H. A. Winnett, RCN.

11 a.m.—Sooke—Services will be held at the Cenotaph.

11 a.m.—Fulford Harbor—The Canadian Legion parade will have music supplied by HMCS Naden band, on tape.

11 a.m.—Sidney—Ceremony will be conducted at Sanscha Hall by Rev. C. H. Whitmore and Rev. F. C. Vaughan-Birch. A gun detachment from 5th Ind. Med. Battery, RCA will provide the two-minute silence salutes.

11 a.m.—HMCS Naden—Personnel of Naden barracks will hold special services. Similar observances will be held aboard all ships of the Pacific Command.

Gordie Howe Foiled Again

Record-breaking 545th goal again eluded Detroit's Gordie Howe (9), here taking puck away from New York's Howie Glover (14), but Howe did make the pass for winning goal as Red Wings edged Rangers.

1-0, in National Hockey League game in Detroit. Others in play are Detroit's Larry Jeffrey (20) and Norm Ullman (7), and Phil Goyette (20) of New York. —(AP Photofax)

That Goal Won't Come Despite Howe's Heroics

Gordie Howe is taking a long time to get that record-breaking 545th National Hockey League goal but the big rightwinger is still the man who makes Detroit Red Wings tick.

Winless in their last four games, the Wings had to defeat New York Rangers last night to retain fourth place. The Rangers kept Howe scoreless, with a piece of luck plus a trip, but it was Howe who made a perfect pass in the 13th minute of the last period to set up Parker MacDonald for the shot which brought the Wings a 1-0 win.

Howe, who scored three goals in the first two games this season, has been held to

The play ruined a fine evening for Balon, part of the Worsley - Plante trade. Canadiens made with the Rangers. Balon got both Montreal goals to make it three games in a row by Richard in the third period but returned to action tied him with Stan Mikita, who after being helped off the ice.

scored Chicago's other goal, in goals scored. Mikita, who drew the ire of the 14,747 fans for getting away with poking Henri Richard and Balon, was knocked out by Richard in the third period but returned to action tied him with Stan Mikita, who after being helped off the ice.

Of Course

DETROIT (AP)—Can it be that Gordie Howe's thoughts of goal No. 545 are bugging him? "Sure," says Detroit Red Wings manager coach Sid Abel.

Inch of Snow Covers Calgary Field As Chilly Prelude to Grid Playoff

From CP and UPI reports

Arrival of winter in Alberta may give Calgary Stampeders some headaches Saturday when they open their two-game, total-point Western Football Conference semi-final against Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Calgary's McMahon Stadium, along with the rest of the province, was blanketed with about an inch of snow yesterday. And while players will be brought in to clear the field if necessary, the chances are good that the two clubs will battle on a frozen, slippery surface.

Both playoff games will be seen live on television Saturday: Ottawa vs. Montreal on Channel 3 and 6 at 10 a.m., and Calgary vs. Saskatchewan at 1:30 p.m. on Channel 8.

Threat of cold weather hasn't deterred fans, and, with only 500 tickets remaining, a sellout is almost certain.

Stampeders have been made eight-and-a-half-point favorites for the first game despite the fact that in three scheduled games the Stampeders won, 17-16, and were tied, 4-4 and 33-33.

Reason for the unexpectedly large spread was probably the respective health of the two clubs.

With Eagle Day scheduled to return to his quarterbacking last season," he said, pointing post, the Stampeders are reportedly in better shape than for any time since the third game of the season.

SOME MISSING

Riders, however, will be definitely without linebacker Dick Schnell and may be without three other regulars. Star Canadian tackle Bill Clarke and Canadian defensive half-back Gene Wlasluk both have knee injuries and halfback Billy Gray, who has been out for 30 days because of injuries, is still a doubtful starter.

Defensive-tackles Joe Lewis and Nick Mumley have been brought in by the Riders to fill any gap but both would be playing their first game of Canadian football. Ron Lancaster will start at quarterback.

CLARK BACK

At Ottawa, where the Rough Riders meet Montreal in the sudden-death Eastern Conference semi-final, it was reported Alouettes would have halfback Don Clark back in action. This news prompted Ralph Sazio, coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, to state he wouldn't be surprised if it was the Alouettes his team would face in the final.

Alouettes plan to rush quarterback Russ Jackson, a battle plan which seemed to leave Ottawa coach Frank Clair unworried.

"They've been trying that out that Jackson threw four touchdown passes against Alouettes two weeks ago. Clair also said he expected halfbacks Ron Stewart and Jack Nichols would be able to play.

A muddy field was forecast for the game and it was announced that an overtime period, 10 minutes each way, would be played if the game was tied after 60 minutes. If it was tied after the overtime period, sudden-death extra overtime will be played.

one in his last nine games. One that counted, that is. Two goals were called back for rules infractions.

Last night, he missed his record-breaking in the last minute when he took a shot at the open New York net and watched helplessly as the puck hit a post and stayed out.

A few minutes earlier, however, Howe was tripped by Harry Howell when he was skating in front of the New York nets with the puck.

LETTER PERFECT

Howe drew a penalty, and the Wings scored on a power play just the way coaches diagram it on a blackboard.

Bill Gadsby whipped a pass from the blueline to Howe in the left corner and Howe blazed the puck right in front of Jacques Plante to the waiting MacDonald.

Plante made 36 stops, 19 in the first period, in an effort to end a New York losing streak at three games. But Terry Sawchuk handled all 25 shots perfectly for his 93rd NHL shutout, only one shy of the record set by George Hainsworth.

In other games last night, fine goaltending by Glenn Hall gave Chicago's leading Blackhawks a 2-2 tie with Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs overcame a 30-first-period deficit to nab Boston Bruins, 4-3.

CLUTCH GOAL

Defenceman Tim Horton scored with less than a minute left to give the Leafs their win. The winning goal came less than five minutes after Billy Harris had tied the score.

Oland Kurtenbach, Guy Gendron and Andy Heberton gave Bruins a healthy lead in the first period before Don Simmons, substituting for the sore-tired Johnny Bower, settled down. George Armstrong and Al Stanley got the game close in the second period.

TWO FIGHTS

The game was featured by two separate fights late in the first period with Bruins getting unofficial verdicts in both. Rookie - defenceman Bob McCord came off a clear winner over Frank Mahovlich in one bout while Boston's Ted Green, rated as one of the best knuckle - throwers in the NHL, practically addressed Ken Douglas in the other set-to.

Eric Nesterenko's second-period goal with Canadiens trying to increase a 2-1 lead with a power play ended the scoring in Montreal and gave the Hawks a new club record of an unbeaten streak of 10 games.

Nesterenko stole the puck from Dave Balon and drove in to score while Howe Young was serving a penalty.

Artless season... any sex—does, bucks and fawns... starts Saturday for deer hunters and fish and game officials expect that 25 to 30 per cent of Vancouver Island's deer harvest will be taken this holiday weekend.

They expect this year's total harvest to be in the 30,000 bracket.

With the opening of doe season also comes the silly hunter season—the season when some crazy hunters shoot at anything that moves. And everything that moves isn't a deer—SOMETIMES IT IS ANOTHER HUNTER.

Trouble is hunters, from now until Dec. 1 when the season ends, don't have to study the deer to make out the horns of a buck. Anything that looks like a deer is in season.

Some hunters haven't yet been able to bag their deer for this season. They are getting desperate. When they get too eager, they become too careless.

Many seasoned hunters argue that when doe season comes in, then buck season should go out. Then hunters would still have to study the animals they shoot at.

There are still many hunters who just won't shoot a doe, on principle. To them it is repulsive, although game biologists say more deer should be harvested and a percentage of that harvest should be does.

In any event, let's keep the shooting this year to deer only. Up until the time of writing Vancouver Island has an excellent hunting record this year.

Nobody has been killed. Only three people have been injured, all self-inflicted by accidentally-fired shotgun pellets.

That's a pretty good record, particularly so since Vancouver Island is considered hazardous hunting territory because of the heavy forest growth.

Let's keep it safe. Let's have no sound shooting.

In all of B.C. there has only been one hunting fatality this year, and that was in the B.C. interior between Americans in their own shooting war.

This is the big holiday weekend for a Tofino goose shooting safari, but reports from that west coast area are not too encouraging.

Denis Singleton of the Maquinna Hotel at Tofino reported yesterday that there are plenty of ecklers (smallest variety of Canada geese) flying around the inlets, but there are not too many of the big Western Canadas.

"The big ones are overdue. They might make it for the weekend," he said.

There are plenty of ducks in the area.

There seems to be geese in small numbers everywhere along the island shores this year. We saw them over Sooke Sunday and off William Head Tuesday. Murray Cree reports seeing several flights of Quailm. There are lots of ducks, he adds.

Winter springs—five to 12 pounds—are the big news on the saltwater front and the Victoria waterfront is the hottest spot. Go deep with herring strip.

Pedder Bay and Becher Bay, right inside the bay, are giving up winter springs.

Last Sunday while a raging southeast gale was blowing in Victoria it was flat calm at Sooke and James Island where among those who met good success winter spring fishing off Otter Point. He was using Strip-Tearer, eight ounces and 80 feet of line.

This brings about a warning to winter fishermen. The springs are close to shore. Don't take chances in bad weather. If you must fish in stormy weather and have a trailer boat study the winds. There is usually a spot where certain winds don't hit.

James Island waters have been giving up springs in six, eight and 10-pound class, right from the bottom.

Doug Dye has found winter springs in Tod Inlet this week. There are plenty of grise in Saanich Inlet in the Willis Point-Boulder-Whittaker Point-centre of Inlet circle and orange and white and red and white bucktails with small spinners have been working well. When you see them jumping, fish the surface and work the rods. When they aren't jumping try three ounces of weight and a steady rod.

Cowichan Bay is giving up small springs and big grise with big spinning dodgers and small spoons productive.

Cowichan River has been good for Jacksprings, jack coho and trout along the entire length, but heavy rains have made fishing difficult at times. Verna Palisser says the top end has been good for rainbows and jacks with salmon egg flies, red and white hackles, paste, spin 'n' glos and golf tees productive. Remember, there is a four-trout limit on the Cowichan now.

Wednesday the river was dropping and clearing, but yesterday it started to rain again.

Cowichan Lake has been good. Durrance Lake is fair.

Carry Back Retired Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Carry Back, the 1961 Kentucky Derby winner who came out of stud for another season of racing this year, has been retired again.

Carry Back closed out his racing career last Saturday with a 2½-length victory in the $59,420 Trenton Handicap at Garden State Park.

U.K. Stars Can Play In Canada

TORONTO (CP)—British soccer players who have been given free transfers by their current teams will be allowed to play in the Eastern Canada Professional Soccer League next season.

Bill Simpson, secretary of the ECPSL and secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Soccer Association, said he has received assurance of this from English, Irish and Scottish leagues.

He said that he convinced the three leagues that their decision would help make the game more popular in this country.

Three years ago the English League had ruled that players who played in Canada could not return to English soccer.

ELSTON HOWARD

Howard Wins MVP Award

NEW YORK—Catcher Elston Howard, who led New York Yankees at the plate with a .287 average, yesterday was named the American League's most valuable player.

Howard, first Negro to win the award, was named on all 20 ballots cast by the Baseball Writers' Association of America, and easily outdistanced runner-up Al Kaline of Detroit Tigers 248 points to 148. Pitcher Whitey Ford of Yankees placed third.

When United Plays Stars

By JIM TAYLOR

Victoria United faces the all-stars of the Victoria and District Soccer League tomorrow at Royal Athletic Park and Manager Wally Milligan finds out how he rates as a home-trader.

Since all-stars upset United 3-2 in a pre-season game, Milligan has latched on to two members of the all-stars—Pat Mulcahy and Tony Bourbyn—for his Pacific Coast Soccer League club.

THEY BELONG

"If they are good enough to beat us," quoth he, "they belong in the coast league." Translated this could mean "If you can't beat 'em, sign 'em." Making room for the two newcomers, and a few others, he tried and released, meant that Milligan had to drop a few players from last year's lineup. Three of them—Chummy

Crabbe, Ash Waldal and Bill Hamilton (who quit)—will be playing against United tomorrow.

United-All-Star games are always interesting and surprisingly close. The player switches simply add a bit of spice—Mulcahy and Bourbyn naturally wanting to be extra good against their old club, and Hamilton, Waldal and Crabbe out to prove they still belong with the best in town. Game time is 2 p.m.

Position by position lineup for all-stars has not been released, but the starting lineup will be selected from Waldal, Tony Quinn and Marty Taylor of Canadian Scottish; Larry DeCosta, Ian Holroyd, Larry Johnston, Crabbe, Cec Robb and Jim Clarke of Gorge Hotel; Barry Cosler and Dunc Campbell of Price and Smith; Gino Bressan, Don McIntosh and Nelson Crisp of Wests, and Hamilton, John Craig and Bob Moore of Brodies.

United gets a holiday from the weekend PCSL schedule, but there are four games scheduled.

Milligan signed another player at last night's practice. His name is Radi Mellin, he plays centre-forward, and he has been playing professional soccer in Australia.

"He looks like he's played the game," Milligan said. "We'll let him play Saturday and find out."

Whoever drew up the district league's first division schedule must have been psychic.

Monday's holiday feature game at Royal Athletic Park puts the league's two top teams—Vic Wests and Gorge Hotel—against each other with first place to the winner.

On Sunday, Eddy's play Scottish at Heywood Park and Esquimalt meets Brodies at Bullen Park. In Sunday's second division play, Wanderers meet Oak Bay at Carnarvon Park; Kickers face Dunlops at Topaz Park, and Navy meets Vikings at HMCS Naden.

All games start at 2 p.m.

He's Worried Now

DETROIT — Fred Massey, 36-year-old operator of a "no worry club," has something to worry about now. He was convicted by a federal court jury of mail fraud and faces a penalty that could range up to a $6,000 fine or 30 years in prison.

Massey advertised: "No Worry Club—details 25 cents." Persons who replied were invited to send $7 for a list of Biblical quotations containing numbers. Massey said if the person played the numbers in a numbers game, his worries would be over.

LOS ANGELES — Actor George Montgomery testified he was followed across the country for two years by his lovesick former housekeeper, Ruth Wenzel, 37, who is accused of trying to kill him to keep him away from "stupid glamour girls." The 46-year-old actor said she followed him to "tell me how much she loved me and to say that she couldn't go on . . . that she was going to commit suicide."

DETROIT — Lowell Thomas, 71-year-old world traveller, radio news commentator and author, is in hospital here under observation for a possible heart ailment.

NEWARK, N.J. — A federal grand jury indicted American engineer John Butenko, 39, and Russian chauffeur Igor Ivanov, 33, on three counts of conspiring to transmit to the Soviet Union information relating to United States national defence.

DANUBE, Minn. — Emil Vietz has been elected mayor by defeating the incumbent, George Voelt, his brother.

QUEBEC — Antonio Talbot, Union Nationale legislature member for Chicoutimi, has been granted trial by judge on a charge of defrauding the Quebec government of $47,000.

LOS ANGELES — A $50,000 personal damage suit has been filed against comedian Lenny Bruce by his mother and stepfather, who claim they were injured in his home. Mrs. Sally Viscarra, 52, and Tony Viscarra, 34, charged they stumbled over a collection of refuse and lumber.

DALLAS — Wendell Polk, 18, snatched a purse from a woman's hand last March and fled. A jury convicted him and sentenced him to two years in prison. The sentence averages six months per penny. Polk's total loot was four cents.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver's civic Non-Partisan Association has endorsed five civic election candidates but spurned a bid for support by former Mayor Tom Alsbury.

The NPA decided to support incumbent Aldermen Orson Barnfield and Anson Bell-Irving, former alderman Halford Wilson, Henry Block and Ed Sweeney.

Shrubs Sought

Saanich has called for price quotations on 100 ornamental shrubs.

Parks Superintendent Albert Richman said some will be used on the new Cedar Hill Cross Road-Blenkinsop traffic island and others will be kept for replacement of privately-owned shrubs damaged by municipal work.

Price forms, available at the municipal engineer's office, are returnable by 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Victoria's Art Collectors Unmoved by Fraud Trial

Despite stories of fake paintings emanating from a fraud trial in Toronto of two art dealers, Victoria collectors don't seem too concerned that there may be fakes here.

Colin Graham, curator at the Victoria Art Gallery, said he has not had any recent requests to pass judgment on pictures thought to be fakes.

In 1951, the art gallery held an exhibition of fakes to demonstrate the various approaches and techniques of people who specialize in faking pictures.

Last time Mr. Graham was asked to pass an opinion on a work supposedly by an 18th century English painter Henry Morland.

CRACKS SIMULATED

The forger in this case had even gone so far as to paint in fine lines to simulate the paint cracks which might be found on an old painting.

At present a work of a Dutch 17th century painter is in Ottawa being examined and X-rayed to determine if it is authentic.

The painting was brought to the gallery here and is signed Van der Poel and dated 1716. But the painter was a young boy then and too young to have painted the picture in addition his name is spelled Van der Pool.

Bridge Results

Winners of the bridge tournament held yesterday were North-South—Margaret Kirby and Ellen Fears; Gretchen and Glen Coffey; Betty and Bill West; and with Leo Demaree and Earle Dye. East-West—David Fulek and Jimmy Leung; James Hill and Henry Redding; Dorothy and Ted Cogate; Mary and Harry Bule.

Being Pressured, MP Tells House

OTTAWA (UPI)—Liberal back-bencher Edmund Asselin charged yesterday he was being pressured to use his position as a member of parliament to try and quash an assault charge against the defeated Conservative candidate in his Montreal riding.

He told the Commons the pressure was accompanied by a threat of personal attack against him in the House if he failed to co-operate.

PUT TO HIM

Asselin said the issue was put to him Wednesday by Paolchal Hayes, defeated Conservative candidate in the last election.

If he did not co-operate Asselin said, Hayes promised that the attacks against him for his part in the recent MacKay Report, which said Asselin made a quick profit on a Montreal school property purchase by obtaining advance information on it, would continue. The report did not question the legality of Asselin's actions, but did raise doubts on their propriety.

Asselin said that Hayes had suggested, specifically that the Liberal member "arrange" a change in testimony by a key witness in the court case arising from charges that Hayes beat a woman in a Montreal restaurant during the April 8 election campaign.

Tax Act Changes Blocked

OTTAWA (UPI)—Finance Minister Walter Gordon's final budget proposal—amendments to the Income Tax Act—remained blocked in the Commons yesterday as opposition parties tried unsuccessfully to change it.

The bill was brought to a halt this week on the 16th of 28 clauses which deals with industrial incentives to "designated depressed areas."

Yesterday the Commons voted down two proposals to amend the bill. One would have "designated areas" receiving extra benefits only at their request, was defeated by a count of 95-56.

The amendment proposed by Henri Latulippe would have extended the benefits under the clause to small businesses already operating in designated areas so they might expand in line with any new industry which might decide to move in.

Recapture Pioneer Spirit Socred Leader Urges

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—"The Parliaments of the past two years have shown how completely inadequate party politics . . . have been in providing sound and stable administration." Social Credit leader Thompson said last night.

He urged rebuilding Canada "the way the pioneers built it . . . by themselves, giving themselves, for the sake of their children and their future homeland."

They'll Be Busy

Busy time is ahead as the Victoria District Registered Nurses Association of B.C. helps in planning a series of lectures and demonstrations on the roles nurses will play in the event of a civil disaster. Sessions are to be held Nov. 13, 20, 27 and 28. Left to right are Mrs. Pat Kahr, Victoria RNABC vice-president; Sister Mary Doris, president; and Joan Russell, nurses' civil defence committee chairman.—(William A. Boucher)

THE DIFFERENCE IN DRY VERMOUTHS

Most brands of dry vermouth are not quite as dry as Martini extra dry. They smell stronger . . . taste a little more pungent and look a little darker in the glass. Some martinis and gibsons are mixed with them . . . and some people prefer them.

Martini extra dry is a lighter, cleaner dry vermouth. Because of this it is more subtle in cocktails. Never intrudes. Many martinis and gibsons are mixed with Martini extra dry vermouth because many people prefer it.

Chatterton

Shipbuilding Plan Merely 'Palliative'

The $150,000,000 shipbuilding program involving the federal transport and mines departments is not a substitute for the cancelled frigate program but has been on the books for some time, says Saanich MP George Chatterton.

Moreover, he added, it involves only about $30,000,000 over a five-year period for Pacific Coast shipyards, about a fifth of what might have been expected from the $452,000,000 frigate program.

Mr. Chatterton called the announcement a "palliative" and pointed out that although warships should not be built merely to provide employment, the frigate program was developed over four years and endorsed by the chiefs of staff.

NAVY STRENGTH CUT

He said that the frigate cancellation without substitution means apparently that Canada's naval strength will be reduced and certain NATO commitments abandoned.

The cancellation also indicates a major change in defence policy because the defence committee was supposed to recommend policy but in this case, as in the case of nuclear arms, it was a government action.

SLIGHT UPSURGE

Mr. Chatterton gave the previous government credit for the slight upsurge in unemployment improvement (2.2 per cent over last year) but said the present administration has proposed no effective measure to overcome the unemployment problem. In fact, he said, many of its measures, reducing the winter work period, sales tax and uncertainty and confusion, may make things worse.

TAXES CLIMB

He said that taxes have risen $300,000,000 a year; business incentives have proved a farce; the Canada Pensions Plan, conceived in haste, is being quietly shelved.

Mr. Chatterton called the Municipal Development and Loan Act simply a scheme to encourage employment. It will cover work which the municipalities would have undertaken in any case, he said.

Blast Victim Hunt Halted

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—A search for 32-year-old Roberta Fera, believed buried in the wreckage of a three-storey building torn apart by an explosion, was suspended Thursday night because of danger to rescue workers.

Judy Vernelli, 23, was pulled from the rubble more than three hours after the blast.

New Year

Reception Locale Uncertain

Aldermen are trying to make up their minds where to hold the city's traditional New Year's Day reception this year.

Ald. Austin Curtis, chairman of the entertainment committee, suggested the lobby of Memorial Arena might prove more satisfactory than accommodation available in the temporary city hall at Bastion Square.

He said the rather steep flights of stairs leading to the third floor council chamber and mayor's office, where the reception would be held, might prove "hazardous." The elevator, carrying only six at a time, is too slow to move the crowds that attend.

"Let's hold it in the city hall and serve only coffee," said Ald. Lily Wilson. But aldermen decided to take another couple of weeks to think about the question of location for the reception.

Finance committee recommended granting of a new five-year lease to the Boy's Club of Victoria for use of the old firehall at a nominal rental of $1 per year. Under the present agreement, which expires Dec. 31, the rental was $30 a month—an amount calculated to cover school taxes on the building.

The committee was told that the building has since been declared tax exempt.

An attempt will also be made to provide suitable accommodation for use of London Boxing Club. The amateur group asked for permission to use the city-owned Duncan Storage building for practice.

City manager Dennis Young said he and welfare administrator Bill Hosson will look into the matter and report back to the committee.

Finance committee endorsed a proposal by three Victoria Optimist Clubs to declare Nov. 11 to 17 Youth Appreciation Week but declined a further suggestion that paid advertisements should be taken by the city to publish the proclamation.

Authority was given for calling of tenders to repaint and repair the elevator cage and shaft so that it will be more in keeping with the use to which the former courthouse is put now and in the future.

Hotel officials checked with the government and found there was a Wilcox employed by the department, but he had not been in Victoria for 14 years. The description given by the hotel clerk did not match that of the real Mr. Wilcox.

An all-candidate meeting for the Oak Bay municipal election will be held in the municipal hall at 8 p.m., Nov. 27, under sponsorship of the Oak Bay Ratepayers' Association.

James Audain, 333 King George Terrace, said that while friends were trying to get him to run for a seat on the council he had not decided and will wait and see what happens as the Nov. 25 nomination day draws closer.

Oral polio vaccine will be distributed to the St. Joseph's Hospital employees and medical staff during coffee breaks on Nov. 14 and 15, a hospital spokesman said yesterday.

Russian Cellist Big Hit

The first regular Famous Artists series attraction went on last night at the Royal Theatre before a large and tremendously enthusiastic audience.

The artist, Russian cellist Mstislav Rostropovich ran the entire gamut of possibilities on this instrument. His pianissimo had violin quality; his booming tones were a revelation in playing Handel.

In the Kabalevsky suite he was magnificent, full of sensitivity and highly dramatic and there was utter dexterity in the Britten item. He was recalled for three encores.

Garbage Collection Satisfactory—Cook

There is no evidence that a stepped-up garbage collection service is needed in Saanich, health and welfare committee chairman Coun. Gregory Cook said last night.

He said, in answer to a Colonist editorial rebuking council for not holding a garbage collection referendum this year, that there have not been enough complaints to justify a referendum.

Municipal hall employees have been keeping records of garbage service complaints since August and "the evidence would suggest that at the moment the people are not dissatisfied with the service," he said.

In October there were eight miscellaneous complaints, 19 complaints of late collection and five complaints that garbage cans were missed, Coun. Cook said.

Uniformity in the sale of fireworks throughout Greater Victoria can only be achieved if provincial regulations are changed, city health and welfare committee was told yesterday.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said the amendment to the Fireworks Regulation Act should permit restricting of sales of fireworks to 48 hours preceding Halloween while still providing for special events.

Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt already have the 48-hour limit, taking their authority from the Municipal Act, but the city has had to adopt the provincial regulations in full, allowing seven days for the sale of fireworks.

City Is Losing 25 Trees To Disease Every Year

The city is losing about 25 boulevard trees each year to the ravages of disease brought on by old age, city parks committee was told.

Parks administrator W. H. Warren estimated that some 30 per cent of the thousands of trees lining city boulevards are about 50 years old.

Like humans, Mr. Warren said, trees reach a peak of vitality and then decline into old age.

As an example, two decades ago the flowering plum trees about the same length of time lining Cornwall Street and Bunting Avenue were a feature of the city. In recent years these trees haven't been flowering well.

In many cases the whole trunk of the trees are infested with a fungus disease that will eventually kill them. About half a dozen flowering cherries, thought to have been planted around 1910, have already been replaced.

On other streets where mountain ash have been standing for about 1908 along Cook Street and Bunting Avenue, a disease that first strikes the heads of the trees and spreads rapidly is continuing to make inroads.

Horse chestnuts planted around 1908 along Cook Street are beginning to lose their vitality.

The parks committee decided this week to seek authority from city council to deal with cases where trees must be removed because they are diseased or present a danger to the public.

Santa Delay Still Not Enough

Santa Claus is coming to town a little later than usual—but it's still too early for the Victoria Christmas in December Committee.

The committee has been formed to combat what its members feel is the too-early starting date for Christmas decorations. Santas and carolling in stores.

The group was established mainly through the efforts last year of two Greater Victoria mothers, Mrs. Alice Collins, 1443 Wende, and Mrs. E. G. MacMinn, 2830 Lansdowne.

Last year more than 8,000 people signed a petition protesting to the Retail Merchants' Association about the early date.

This year the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce plans to sponsor a Santa Claus parade Nov. 23, and is urging merchants to delay any Christmas promotions until that time.

This is still too early for the Christmas in December

Committee, whose members neither support nor oppose the parade.

"We don't have to go to a parade," Mrs. Collins said yesterday, "but we have to do our shopping in the stores."

"We feel some merchants are in sympathy with us," she said, "and we are optimistic that with continued support from the public our aims can be achieved."

Mrs. Collins stressed the committee were not opposed to Christmas advertising and merchandising in November.

"We realize merchants have to prepare for Christmas—we just oppose the early Santas, store decorations and carols."

The committee is considering making formal protests to the Jaycees and city council over the date of the parade.

"If it (the parade) is really for the children," she said, "then the merchants must realize the strain they place on children for the five weeks before Christmas."

Teachers

Pay Parley Deadlocked

Victoria teachers and school trustees were still deadlocked in wage bargaining at the end of last night's session.

Negotiators for Greater Victoria School District 61 increased their offer in administrative allowances by two per cent.

OFFER RAISED

Last week they offered principals allowances of 21 per cent to 33 per cent of their certification salaries, depending on the number of teachers under them, and last night raised this to 23 and 35 per cent.

They also made concessions in junior high school principals' increases but these were not accepted by the teachers who agreed to take the matter back for consideration by the principals' section of the teacher association.

REQUEST REJECTED

The teachers' request for basic salary increases ranging from five to eight per cent was rejected and an offer of from one to 2.6 per cent made.

The teachers will consider the offer which was made by the board on the grounds that it follows a pattern now being established in negotiations in the Vancouver area.

A further negotiation meeting is planned for next Thursday at 8 p.m.

Festival Given $3,000

A grant of $3,000 to aid the University of Victoria in its Shakespearean festival in the summer of 1964 has been awarded by the Canada Council.

The festival will evaluate Shakespeare's work and position after 400 years and will offer a seven-week course by a Shakespearean scholar.

Recently the festival was named for a grant of $1,000 from the Leon and Thea Koerner Foundation.

The Canada Council grant is part of $12,000 offered for four projects.

Wife Relieved

I'm OK—Don't Worry

Wife of one of the survivors from the crashed Trans-Canada Airlines said last night

she was relieved to hear her husband escaped unscathed but she "wants to see him before I will believe it."

Soula Trikeriotis, 1034 Burdett, a mother of two, said she first knew of the crash at London Airport when she received a telegram from her husband.

It said simply that he had been in a plane crash but that he was all right and that she was not to worry.

"He phoned me afterwards and said he was all right. He said he would phone again but I told him he didn't need to," Mrs. Trikeriotis said.

"I don't remember how I felt except that I was upset. The phones have been ringing all day. The radio stations and the airline have been calling."

Kostas Trikeriotis left Victoria a month ago to fly back to his native Greece for a month. He is employed in the Crest Motel.

Mrs. Trikeriotis said she knew he was to take a plane on Nov. 6 but she hadn't heard about the crash until she received his telegram.

"What did happen?" she asked a reporter. "The accounts are confusing. I've heard the plane took off and that it didn't get off the ground. He told me some people were hurt."

She was relieved when she was told there were few injuries and none were serious. "That is good," she said.

She was still a little bit doubtful though.

"I want to see him before I believe it," she said.

Mr. Trikeriotis was due in Vancouver at 11:30 p.m. last night—too late for the last flight to Victoria.

Mr. Trikeriotis came to Victoria from Athens in 1955. Two years later his wife joined him.

They have two daughters, Angela, 5, and Tina, 3.

Defence Minister Here

Defence Minister Paul Hellyer arrived in Victoria just after 11 p.m. last night to attend the eighth annual meeting of the Canadian Services College advisory board at Royal Roads.

'Hostilities to Cease At Eleven Hours'

By DON GAIN

The buff-colored rectangle of paper doesn't look very important—just a printed form for recording army messages. But the date leaps out at you—11-11-18.

That was an important day, Armistice Day, 1918.

The message in code doesn't make much sense. It reads "YVWGU UKPSO NESNY FDMNG" and so on.

"HOSTILITIES WILL CEASE AT ELEVEN HOURS TODAY."

The historic document is the property of Commissioner George Roberts, 74, of 877 Leslie Drive.

He received the message 45 years ago Monday at 8:16 a.m. when he was a wireless operator with the First Division Signals attached to the First Brigade Field Artillery near Mons.

"We were on the road to Mons," he said. "We had been moving forward since Aug. 8."

"I came on duty at 8 a.m. that day," he said, "and I took the message at 8:16. We had known for some time that something like this was going on."

The message was sent out by Canadian Army headquarters, he said.

MANY KILLED

"It was too bad so many were killed on various parts of the front between the time the armistice was announced and the time it took effect," he said.

Mr. Roberts joined the Cameron Highlanders in Winnipeg and was transferred to the signal corps. He was sent overseas in September, 1916, was in the trenches of Belgium and France by March, 1917. He saw service at Vimy, Lens, Passchendaele.

HORRIBLE PLACE

"That horrible place," he said with a grimace. "It was all mud. I don't think there was a square yard that didn't have a shell hole."

The day after he received the historic Armistice Day message he was on his way to Germany as part of the Army of Occupation.

20 DAYS ON ROAD

"We were 20 days on the road," he said. "We finally reached Wahn, near Cologne, and stayed there until January, 1919. Then we were transferred to Belgium until March, then to England. I got home to Winnipeg the beginning of May."

Mr. Roberts, a commissioner, has worked for the Victoria Press off and on since 1960, is at present employed as a mail clerk.

Big Estate Sold At Shoal Harbor

The 19-acre North Saanich waterfront estate where Mrs. George R. Penkes spent her childhood was sold this week to a family in California.

The sale price was not disclosed, but it was generally known that the property was offered on the market at $135,000. Name of the new owner was not given by the Sidney real estate firm of Gordon G. Hulme Ltd., which handled the transaction.

AT SHOAL HARBOR

The estate, known as The Latch, at Shoal Harbor, was last owned by the family of Eric Philbrook, who has Philbrook's Boat Works at 2324 Harbor Road.

The house was built in 1927 by the late W. U. Copeman, the father of the wife of B.C.'s present lieutenant-governor. The estate was later owned by former lieutenant-governor W. C. Nicholas and was visited by the Duke of Windsor at the time he was the Prince of Wales.

FOURTEEN ROOMS

The main residence has 14 rooms, including seven bedrooms and five bathrooms. There is a gardener's cottage on the premises.

A spokesman for the Sidney real estate firm said yesterday that the estate was "sold to a California family as an investment for a trust estate." There are no immediate plans for development but the main residence will be offered for leasing, he said.

Sportsmen Expected To Move In

Odds are dollars-to-doughnuts that a new public access at Cordova Bay will become a favorite boat launching site.

The corporation of Saanich recently purchased two lots at Agate Lane for use as a public access to the beach.

Conversion of the 80-foot waterfront property under the winter works program is expected to be completed in about a week.

Sports fishermen will probably move in as soon as the workmen move out.

Anti-Theft Conference

Small retail merchants both to play Santa Claus to shoplifters are especially invited to a meeting of the retail merchants group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce at noon Tuesday in the Dominion Hotel.

Merchants will see a short film and hear a talk by Archibald Logan of Eaton's.

No Haircut Wednesday? Ridiculous, Says McLean

Ald. J. L. W. McLean said yesterday it is "ridiculous" that no one can get a haircut on Wednesday in Victoria because all local barber shops must be closed on that day.

The present situation is not only an inconvenience to local residents but a serious drawback to the tourist trade, he said.

Commenting on the petition submitted by 27 out of 53 city barber shops, asking for a change from Wednesday to Monday closing, Ald. McLean said the city should consider rescinding the present bylaw.

This would give the barbers the option to close or open as they wish within the broader provincial and federal regulations, city manager Dennis Young said.

Ald. McLean said it would be up to the barbers themselves to work out an arrangement of opening and closing days that best suited the area and segment of the public they serve.

MAYOR AGREES

Mayor R. B. Wilson agreed and added that withdrawal of civic regulations would not mean that barbers could not close. He said hours-of-work regulations would provide protection for employees.

Finance committee agreed to recommend that city council rescind the bylaw, thus removing the last remaining local controls on store hours. It noted that there was a general trend away from such regulations.

The man who is at the centre of the current dispute over barber shop hours. All

Principle of the Mayfair barber shop, will present a brief to council at its meeting next Thursday. He was charged after opening on Wednesday in defiance of the bylaw. The planning a party . . . Ken Barholder looking for a book, closes Monday.

Sister Mary Margaret, nursing sister at Mount St. Mary Hospital, 999 Burdett Avenue, and Mrs. Blair Reid show some of the many articles which will be on sale at the Mount St. Mary bazaar on Wednesday, Nov. 13, from 1 to 4:30 p.m. There will be home cooking, handkerchiefs, aprons and novelties stalls set up on the first floor. Afternoon tea will be served in the fourth floor sunroom from 2 to 4:30 p.m.

Couple Celebrate Diamond Wedding

Family and friends honored the Lieutenant-Governor, Premier Bennett and Mayor R. B. Wilson.

Among the many guests at the anniversary celebrations were the couple's five daughters, Mrs. F. Bussey, Los Angeles; Mrs. A. Orre, Vancouver; Mrs. J. W. Bussey, Portland; Mrs. A. R. Wolfe, Regina, and Mrs. Fyfe, and one son, Mr. Paul Klatt, Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Klatt have 16 grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren.

Parish Bazaar
Queen of Peace Church parish bazaar will be held in the parish hall, 849 Old Esquimalt Road, Wednesday, from 2 to 10 p.m.

$320 Raised At Bazaar

GANGES, B.C. — Under the auspices of Old Age Pensioners, Branch 32, a successful bazaar and tea held Saturday, in the Anglican parish hall, netted $320.

The affair was convened by Mrs. Elsie Thacker and was officially opened by the president, Fred Goddard. Tea convenor was Mrs. B. L. Krebs, assisted by Mrs. C. Earnshaw, Mrs. Frank Westcott and Mrs. E. Sampson.

Those in charge of stalls were: Fancy work, Mrs. Proctor and Mrs. Peter Middlemiss; home-cooking, Mrs. S. Kitchener; home-made jams, Christmas puddings, cards and gifts, Mrs. Thacker; white elephant, Mr. and Mrs. Bosack.

A dressed doll was won by Kim Peterson and a box of canned goods by Alex Angle. Mr. Peter Middlemiss was at the door.

ST. PHILIP'S

A turkeyburger luncheon and bazaar will be held in St. Philip's church hall, corner Neil and Eastdowne, Saturday, Nov. 16 from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Daughter's Whim Mother's Success

MUNICH (DaD) — The little Southern German town of Murnau recently witnessed a gigantic invasion. Radio and television crews, newsworld teams, multitudes of press photographers and many onlookers besieged a small, inconspicuous house.

This great show of interest was not due to a state visit nor to a film star visiting the town but to a friendly old lady, a typical grandmother, Kathe Kruse, who celebrated her 80th birthday.

The octogenarian is the inventor of the "Kathe Kruse Dolls" that have been the joy and delight for whole generations of little girls all around the world for more than 50 years.

As a young girl, Kathe Kruse dreamed of a stage career. She performed on the stage of the Berlin Lesing Theatre but soon left it. She had met and fallen in love with the then famous sculptor Professor Max Kruse who wanted to paint her portrait and who married her shortly after.

Frau Kruse's eldest daughter Mimerle inspired her later success. When Mimerle's little sister was born she wanted to have a baby as soft and warm as her mother's. As Papa Kruse could not find a doll to his liking, the young mother decided to make one herself. She modelled body, arms and legs out of a napkin filled with warm sand with a painted potato serving as a face. This first doll was named Oskar after an uncle of the family.

But Oskar began to lose his "soul" and sand was scattered all over the apartment. Kathe Kruse continued to experiment. She stuffed her next dolls with cotton wool, and later with water-resistant deer's hair. These "babies" could be bathed without being ruined in the process.

The doll production increased in the next five years, for all of Kathe Kruse's eight children (three girls and five boys) wanted to have "real babies" to cuddle and play with. The dolls' faces were modelled on her children's faces. The dolls' bodies were sculptured by her husband and all dolls had real hair.

The "doll mother" was well known among friends and relatives when she decided to participate in a Christmas contest for handmade toys. This was in 1910 and Kathe Kruse won first prize. She became famous overnight. Orders arrived from all over the world, flooding the young mother with work. She needed 42 working hours to complete one doll. Later, a real factory was made out of the workshop, production was rationalized and greatly increased.

After the war, Frau Kruse's East German company was nationalized. But the 70-year-old woman did not lose faith. She

Beef Gets Thicker

MONTREAL (CP)—A woman who works in the tourist industry says most French-speaking women in Quebec don't consider the rest of Canada when planning holidays.

Monique Archambault, special events coordinator of the Montreal Tourist Bureau, aired her views on tourism in a panel discussion Wednesday at the Canadian Tourist Association convention.

"To the Quebec woman, Ontario is too much like her own province. The prairies are long and dull. The Rockies are beautiful, but she might as well go to the Alps," she thinks.

"In the Maritimes, the water is too cold for swimming."

The speaker said these were not her views nor were they necessarily a fair judgment of what Canada has to offer women tourists.

"Canada and its provinces simply aren't telling their tourist attraction story well enough," she said. "And the other provinces aren't telling it in bilingual brochures."

Quebec women have no curiosity about the other parts of Canada and no one at the present time seems interested in arousing this curiosity.

She said Quebec women feel like strangers outside their province and "feel embarrassed when they speak French."

Quebecers eat well and expect to find interesting cuisine elsewhere—"something different." "Instead, it's beef everywhere and it gets thicker as you go farther west."

Fashion editor Iona Monahan of Montreal said she travels a great deal across Canada and is convinced other women who have done so "would never dream of taking a holiday in Canada."

She said she found it "boring, dull and stuffy."

Claithes On Sale At Bazaar

St. Aidan's United Church Women held a most successful bazaar last Saturday when the sum of $940 was realized.

The church auditorium was decorated in a Scottish theme by Mrs. R. Watson and Mrs. G. Fields.

Featured at the booths were Cocker-Nanny Bonnets, Baern's Pliskies and Claithes along with Hame Cooking and Bonnie Bracken.

The affair was opened by the minister's wife, Mrs. A. G. Macleod.

Co-conveners, Mrs. N. A. McDiarmid and Mrs. K. W. Brown were ably assisted by Mrs. V. Walton, Mrs. S. James and Mrs. G. Brown who convened the luncheon and tea.

Orchestra conductor, Mr. Otto Werner Mueller, and Mrs. Mueller who is visiting here from Montreal paid a surprise visit to the meeting and Mr. Mueller addressed the members.

Last-minute arrangements were made for the rummage sale to be held on Nov. 15 at Jameson Motors and plans for the Christmas party to be held on Dec. 2 were also discussed.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I was fascinated by the letter from the woman who admitted that for 11 years she had been the mistress of a married man. I'm sure her lover is my husband.

I have adored this man with all my heart these past 11 years—and you can add another 11 years for good measure, because there were two other women before this one came along.

I'm in excellent health, contrary to what she believes, but it's far more convenient to tell one's mistress that the wife is mentally ill, or that she suffers from headaches, back aches, exhaustion and so forth. This provides him with an excellent excuse for seeking outside company and it makes the mistress believe she is filling a vital need in his life.

I've dedicated myself to being a good mother, an active and useful member of the community, and I'm determined to hold my head up. Life would be infinitely easier, however, if well-meaning "friends" didn't feel it their moral obligation to tell me what is going on.

I hope to face the future with courage and to wait patiently until my man comes home for good. I will welcome him back and even push his wheel chair because I love him and I always will. GRISelda.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell that mistress of 11 years that her letter scored a bull's eye. It's my husband she has all right, and she can have him.

I've been begging the big clown to clear out for the last six years. I've told him I'm sick and tired of covering up for him with the kids. I've even packed his clothes and ordered him to leave. But do you know what he says? "Honey, that woman can't shine your shoes. Please stick with me until I get this foolishness out of my system."

So I'm sticking—with the clear understanding that the first time he embarrasses me or his children by appearing on a public sidewalk with that dame I'll knock his block off.

Dear Ann Landers: Please wire me collect either yes or no. Did that letter from the 11-year mistress come from Hamilton, Ontario? My husband has been acting funny since 1952 and it all figures. Thanks, Mom—T.C.L.

Dear T.C.L.: Sorry, I will not tell you where the letter came from, but I will tell you that it did not come from Hamilton. And I'm not your mother.

Fashions

 In London

LONDON (Reuters) — Buyers from 38 countries saw a bright new London line at the Fashion House Group's show which opened its off-the-peg fashion week Monday.

After last year's record export orders, the group's chairman, Raymond Zelker, forecasts another increase as a result of this week's shows.

The 28 British wholesale houses making up the group have given him cause for optimism with a fascinatingly varied collection of fashion and price-conscious clothes.

Opening the group's 10th show, Mrs. Reginald Maudling, wife of Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, told the buyers "our clothes in general, and the Fashion House Group's in particular, combine the most wonderful value with their styling, quality of cloth and furnishing."

BRIGHT COLORS
 The old accusation that the British are too conventional with color can hardly hold good in the face of a set of long slinky evening dresses for the young, in combinations of pink and purple.

There was also a quartet of short black shifts for card enthusiasts with a huge white heart, diamond, club or spade printed in the centre.

One of the many long, slender evening shifts shown was in orchid pink with multi-colored flowers appliqued from neck to hem. A range of evening wear featured vivid yellows, subtle almonds or dazzling whites made up in washable cotton pique.

In a "Tahiti" collection of resort clothes jungle colors were thrown together to make exotic cotton shifts in Gauguin-type prints.

The quality clothes for which Britain is famous were represented by classic outfits in wool, tweed and lambswool. One of the oldest London fashion houses showed reefer coats and jackets in an exclusive weave of Scottish wool tweed.

Widow
 Wreath

OTTAWA (CP) — A 74-year-old widow, Mrs. Mary Stodgell of Winnipeg, who lost three sons in the Second World War, will represent Canadian mothers at the national remembrance ceremony here Nov. 11. Mrs. Stodgell will place one of the official wreaths at the National War Memorial. Her wreath—on behalf of some 104,000 mothers who lost sons in war—will be placed immediately following that of Governor-General Vanier.

Prospective Members Entertained

Yellow chrysanthemums and matching paper candles graced the table at the home of Mrs. Lillian Jones, 3332 Henderson Road, Director of XI Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, at the Chapter's Preferential Tea.

Mrs. Wilma Bonnell of XI Beta poured. Members present included Miss Sharron Wilson, Mrs. Myrtle Okell, Mrs. Vickie Hickman, Mrs. Willa Coles, Mrs. Pat McNally Dawes, Mrs. Gwen Leacock, Mrs. Diana Mercer, Mrs. Yvonne Oakley, and Mrs. Meriam Armstrong.

Mrs. E. M. Oakley of 3601 Thistle Street offered the use of her home to the members of XI Chapter for the fall rushing "Hootenanny" party to introduce the new prospective members: Miss Sharron Wilson, Mrs. Marie Hunt, Miss Val Rainer, Mrs. Florence Tickner, and Miss Joyce Camus. The "pizza pie" dinner, following a program by members was enjoyed. Mrs. Lillian Jones, Mrs. Myrtle Okell, Mrs. Vickie Hickman, Mrs. Diana Mercer, Mrs. Gwen Leacock, Mrs. Willa Coles, Miss Shirley Merkle, Miss Irene Boone, Mrs. Pat McNally Dawes, Mrs. Meriam Armstrong, and Miss Marie Tweet attended.

Garden Notes

The Christmas Rose

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

One plant which most certainly deserves a place in every garden is the Christmas rose, Helleborus niger. Not only is it an excellent and long-lived dwarf perennial, but its chaste and delicate blooms appear at a time when flowers are few.

Let's get one thing straight first—the Christmas rose is not a rose at all, but a member of the buttercup family. And the appealing beauty of the "flowers" is due to their bracts rather than to the petals, like the dogwood and pansy.

A sturdy and well-developed plant, settled down comfortably in a spot to its liking, can produce 35 to 50 blooms every winter without fail, and some extra-vigorous specimens have been known to bear as many as 150 blooms. They won't put on this kind of performance without a little help for, while long-lived and persistent, this winter gem must have the correct care to be truly rewarding.

Once established, the hellebores are not moved. I often get complaints in the mail from folks who cannot get their plants to bloom but, in almost every case, it turned out the owners had shifted the plants every spring in and endeavor to find the combination of soil and aspect which would induce flowering. The poor things had never been allowed to remain in one place long enough to settle down.

To flower freely, the Christmas rose should have a position where the plants will enjoy plenty of winter sunshine but some protection from the heat of the sun in summer. Somehow the idea has got about the hellebores are all shade-lovers. This is not correct; the plants will seldom do their stuff unless you can give them a south, west or southwest aspect.

The plant goes into its dormant period in summer and during its time of rest it needs cool shade. Probably the easiest way to secure such a sun-in-winter, shade-in-summer position is to choose a spot shadowed by the foliage of a leaf-losing tree or shrub. If such a site is sheltered also from the prevailing winds, so much the better.

Good drainage is another important point, for no winter-flowering plant can endure heavy, sodden soil. Unless your ground is free-draining and free from winter puddles, it is best to plant your Christmas roses in a raised bed made up of two parts topsoil, one part old rotted manure or compost, and one part coarse sand, adding one cup of hydrated lime and 1½ cups bonemeal per square yard.

The plants are set in exactly as you would plant strawberries, with the crowns level with the soil surface, about 18 inches apart and with the roots well spread out rather than dropped into a narrow trowel hole. Like the strawberry, too deep planting will rot the crown, while too shallow treatment permits the roots to dry out.

The hellebores love an annual mulch of old rotted leaves, always with a sprinkle of lime to counteract the acidity of the leafmould. This mulch will keep the weeds down and ensure cool rooting conditions. In September, when the plants are starting into active growth, it is helpful to give a little liquid seaweed fertilizer in water.

While the Christmas rose will bloom quite freely in our favored climate without any protection at all, the chaste beauty of the white flowers is often marred by mud splashes during heavy winter downpours. For this reason, it is a good idea to rig up eaves or some kind of extemporized frame to protect against rain and keep the blossoms unspilled.

Father ART BUCHWALD Gets Warning

Doll's House Crisis Ended

WASHINGTON—Not too long ago we wrote about the problems parents face when their daughter owns a Barbie Doll. A Barbie Doll, for you lucky people who don't have daughters, is a $3 doll that requires $1,200 worth of clothes to be dressed properly.

The Barbie Doll people sell everything from cars to dream houses for Barbie, each item backed by a gigantic advertising campaign.

They also sell a doll named Ken and he requires only $1,000 worth of clothes. But not being satisfied with Barbie and Ken, the company puts out a third doll, Barbie's best friend, Midge.

In our article we reported that our daughter decided that Barbie wanted to marry Ken and so we paid for Barbie's trousseau, Ken's wedding clothes, and a dream house. We thought this would be the end of it, but the other day a friend warned us that trouble was brewing at her house and we should be prepared for it.

This is what happened. When our friend's daughter Barbie married Ken, there was a big wedding and everyone thought they would live happily ever after. But kids today are conscious of what is going on around them, and last week the daughter told her mother, "Barbie wants to get a divorce."

The mother was shocked. "Why?"

"Ken has fallen in love with Midge."

The mother called up her husband and told him to come home right away.

"What for?" he wanted to know.

"Barbie and Ken are splitting up."

The husband rushed home and sure enough his daughter confirmed the news. Ken had fallen in love with Midge.

By careful prying the mother and father got to the bottom of the story. It seems that once Barbie got married she became a housewife and spent all her time cleaning the dream house and cooking meals for Ken. She was either dressed in a housecoat or an apron and she kind of let herself go.

Midge, on the other hand, always showed up at Barbie's dressed to the teeth. Since Midge had no dream house to take care of, she could spend her spare hours looking beautiful. Ken naturally was attracted to Midge since she stacked up so much better than Barbie.

The father thought fast. If he allowed Barbie and Ken to divorce, he'd have to buy a whole new trousseau for Midge, plus new clothes for Barbie, and a new house for her since she certainly would refuse to live with her ex-husband. He saw a $100 investment coming up.

"Before they can get a divorce," the father said, "Barbie and Ken have to see a marriage counselor."

"Where can we find one?" the daughter wanted to know.

"I happen to be one," the father said. "I studied it at University."

The father went to the dream house and talked to Barbie and Ken while his daughter listened.

First he addressed Barbie. "The reason you are losing Ken," he said, "is that you're letting yourself go. It's all right to be a good housekeeper and a good cook, but you must also remember to look pretty all the time."

Then he spoke to Ken. "You really love Barbie, but you are attracted to Midge because she looks beautiful. Once she marries you, she'll look just like Barbie. You have a good deal, so don't lose it up."

The father seems to have averted the breakup. Barbie now gets dressed up for dinner every night when Ken comes home from work, and Midge can visit the dream house only once a week.

If she gives Barbie any trouble at all, the marriage counselor has warned his daughter he's going to throw Midge away.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Wifey Buys a Trinket

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—The young Mrs. Tony Curtis was having a lovely time at a jeweller's in Beverly Hills when I went in to have my watch fixed. The former Christine Kaufmann, in huge dark glasses, was leafing through a sheet of designs for expensive diamond necklaces. Tony has given her carte blanche to get anything her dear little heart desires. And it is going to be dear from the look of those designs.

They do say that the Frank Perrys have done it again, that their Ladybug, Ladybug is superb. All of which proves that Frank and Eleanor's David and Lisa was not a one-shot. They are here to stay, hurrah, hurrah.

From Deborah Kerr: "A star is very brave to take $1,000,000. How can you face people when the picture is bad?" Elizabeth Taylor seems to have no trouble at all.

Doug McClure is carrying a man-size torch for estranged wife Barbara Luna... and Troy Donahue seems to be stalling on the question of marriage with Suzanne Pleshette... Laurence Harvey nailed down the movie rights to his Time of the Barracuda play. But I doubt whether Elaine Stritch will repeat her stage role.

Jimmy Ritz, at the big premiere of Stanley Kramer's It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World, told me he and his many brothers were just back from the east and were planning a television series. "We feel the time is right for us." They will probably be working for Debbie Reynolds, of all people. Debbie has a big company with Irving Briskin for movies, TV and whatever is saleable. "She has a hell of a head on her," accented Mr. Ritz. Debbie, the business tycoon, has her offices at her studio alma mater, Metro.

No nudes is good nudes, perhaps. Warner has killed dozens of stills from Elia Kazan's America, America. There is a seduction scene of the hero by Joanna Frank and it was too seductive. This is Joanna's first picture and she's starring with that Greek boy with the unpronounceable and unappealing name. Joanna has a new date with a photographer—with some clothes on.

Marlene Dietrich could be new competition for Bony Schneider. Marlene saw Alain Delon's new movie, Any Number Can Play, and she wants to play. She called Alain to work out a deal to have him as her co-star in Cheri, the Casablanca story of an older woman and a gigolo.

Something new for Peter Sellers. He will do King Lear—Now there's a surprise—with Mr. Laurence Olivier at the Chichester Festival, for three weeks in May. Peter, our nonstop worker, having just finished The World of Henry Orient, is beginning A Shot in the Dark. After which he comes to Hollywood to star with Brian Martin in The Dazzling Hour for BUI Wilder.

There is a big deal cooking with Kim Novak and producer Marty Poll. Kim's associates tell me. Marty has not only been looking at all of Kim's past pictures, but he ripped up to her home in Carmel to discuss the deal. He will co-star her with Mareello Mastroianni. And that's good teaming.

Japanese Hire You on Face Value

By SHIRLEY GILBERT

"How would you like to have your face read?"

These words, tossed above the glare of a crowded Tokyo newsroom, were to raise the curtain on the strangest interview for a job I have ever had.

The speaker was editor of a well-known English language newspaper. After the usual glance at references, the rambling that "we seem to be all filled up," the editor threw his startling question about my face.

Five minutes later we were seated on down cushions in a tatami-floored (mat-covered) room and Mr. Yoshito Mizuno, grand exponent of the Japanese art of "nino" (face reading) was holding my face in his gaze. Then he rendered his verdict to the waiting editor: "She will be a good and competent employee. She will work hard and well."

"But I am afraid if she were offered a job with a better salary, she would leave you high and dry."

The editor nodded and thanked Mr. Mizuno profusely. Then the two men bowed deeply to each other and we took our leave.

The editor said: "I will give you a job on the basis of Mizuno's reading. But I must insist that you sign a contract for one year."

Shocked by this method of hiring, I asked the editor's secretary if mine were an unusual case. "Oh no," she said, "my boss takes all his 'gajins' (foreigners) looking for a job to Mr. Mizuno for a verdict. Mr. Mizuno," she said, "is paid for his services 'per face'."

Intrigued with employment by nino, I arranged a return visit to the face-reader.

Mr. Mizuno explained that nino involved more than just face-reading.

The body shape, posture, habits of walking and sitting, choice of clothing and face coloring as well as features themselves are all taken into account when the nino-reader faces his client. Mizuno is also an expert in the art of "teso" or palmistry.

Nino is still used in Japan to arrive at some of the important decisions of life such as hiring employees, signing all-important contracts and, most commonly, picking the right sort of mate. Many a Japanese swain has left a nino reader downcast because he has just ruled that the object of the gentleman's affections would be totally unsuitable as a wife.

Mr. Mizuno has turned his face-reading talents into a truly amazing career, the highlights of which have made him one of Japan's most highly-respected nino experts.

During the Second World War Mr. Mizuno actually picked, using his nino talents, pilots for the Japanese Navy. The nino-reader estimates he checked at least 300,000 faces and palms, recommending about 10 per cent for pilot duty.

One year after Japan's surrender, the ninoists were hired by the police force to advise prison officials when to grant paroles.

Now he helps businessmen choose employees. He estimates that his choices are 90 per cent correct—for "no one can be perfect."

'Won't Be Produced Here'

City Woman to See Her Play in East

A Victoria playwright is going to Ottawa to see her prize-winning play produced because she doesn't ever expect to see one produced locally.

Mrs. Mimi Edgell, wife of Saanich farmer Frank Edgell, won second prize of $150 with her drama, Beyond Our Time, in the Ottawa Little Theatre Workshop's annual play-writing competition.

OLD SAYING

"You know the old saying about a prophet and honor in his own country—well I'm going to Ottawa to see my play produced because I don't expect to see one on stage here, she told the Colonist.

Mrs. Edgell has written half a dozen plays but this year's winner and a thriller, Quiet Half Hour, which gained honorable mention a few years ago, are the only ones to be produced.

THRILLER PUBLISHED

There is no prize for honorable mentions, but that year the Canada Council supplied money for publication of a book of Canadian plays and her thriller was among them. This was produced several times in the east but never in the west.

The Ottawa Little Theatre plays, and while in Ottawa

Mrs. Edgell will be presented with her prize. The play deals with the problem of inter-marriage when an East Indian boy and a white girl want to be married, although both sets of parents are opposed to mixed marriages.

B.C. Will Set Up Centennial Board

B.C. will set up its own special committee to plan provincial participation in Canada's 1967 centennial celebrations, a government spokesman said yesterday.

The appointment of members will be a cabinet responsibility and is not expected to come until after B.C. gets official word from Ottawa on financial arrangements.

One task of the committee will be to co-ordinate local centennial projects throughout the province.

Federal and provincial governments have already indicated their willingness to make local grants for special centennial projects.

The provincial government may try to get federal aid for a B.C. centennial project.

Premier Bennett earlier proposed that a new provincial museum in Victoria would be a suitable project for B.C.

Albertans Sign The Most

Albertans led in the number of tourists signing the guest books aboard the B.C. government ferries, a spokesman said yesterday.

Visitors from B.C.'s neighbor province made up 21 per cent of the signers with Ontario and the state of California tying with 15 per cent each.

Tourist visitors in order of the number signing the book were Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Washington, Quebec, Oregon, New York, and Illinois.

More than 20,000 visitors signed the book.

Clinton, little more than a cluster of stores around the old courthouse, is typical of the southern grassroots. Located in a cattle farming area of Louisiana, it is only 25 miles south of the Mississippi line.

Change in racial customs is inconceivable to a large majority of the white minority which controls the economy and the government - as in other southern towns.

A militant Negro group, joining the town awake to racial issues, raised the threat of change - a change that would leave no small town immune.

FIGHT VOTER PURGE
Perplexity and resentment prevail among the white residents. Negro spokesmen vow to keep up their drive, apparently triggered by a voter purge of six years ago.

The voter rolls of East Feliciana Parish (county), of which Clinton is the governmental seat, were purged after Henry Earl Palmer became the parish registrar.

At that time there were about 1,500 Negro voters among the 4,000 persons on the parish's poll list. Palmer said that since the purge, 2,600 white persons and 119 Negroes have re-registered.

"We don't discriminate," said Palmer, who operates a dairy.

Computer Says:

Some Epistles Not Written By St. Paul

CULROSS, Scotland (AP)—A plain-spoken Scottish clergyman in this village north of Edinburgh, followed their lead, but examined thousands more samples through the dark glass of history and concluded only five of the biblical epistles of St. Paul were really written by him.

Results of the investigation by Rev. Andrew Q. Morton into the 14 Pauline epistles have already stirred lively controversy.

LONG IN DISPUTE

Authorship of the Pauline epistles has long been in dispute. Biblical scholars at Tubingen University in Germany reached the same conclusions as Morton a century ago.

The Scottish clergyman, a bachelor of science in mathematics as well as divinity and pastor of the local Church

He started with Galatians, generally accepted as genuine because in it St. Paul replies to personal attacks on his authority. The style used in first and second Corinthians, Romans and Philemon, he said, and it markedly different in all the others.

This is the way Morton explained his method:

LIVE FINGERPRINTS

Every author has indelible and unconscious habits of style—"as fixed as fingerprints." The original Greek of the Pauline epistles was typed out on computer tape and fed into the machine. It counted the frequency and placing of the Greek words for "and," "he," "she," "it," "but," "in"; the use of all parts of the verb "to be"; the length of sentences, and the use of the definite article.

In the five epistles they were similar: In the other nine they were not. The same tests were applied to writers of Greek prose—400 samples covering 600,000 words—and the computer came up with the answers already been established by other means.

Caribou Program Revived

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Congress, revising its decision, has agreed to allow the U.S. Army to continue to participate in the Canadian Caribou II transport plane development program. It was learned yesterday. The army has agreed to allocate $5,000,000 for this purpose.

An army informant said permission to continue U.S. participation followed closed-door hearings last week before the House of Representatives and Senate defence appropriations subcommittees where Army Secretary Cyrus Vance pleaded for reconsideration of the original congressional decisions which would have meant cancellation of the Caribou II program.

The informant said an announcement on the decisions is under preparation and likely will be made jointly by Canada and the U.S. shortly.

Healthwise

Jolt Beats Jigger

LONDON (AP) — A British medical magazine suggests it might be a good idea to legalize the use of marijuana.

Possession and importation of marijuana are against the law in Britain, where it is listed as a dangerous drug. Taking issue with this legal view, the medical magazine — The Lancet — says in its latest issue that the effects of marijuana are probably no worse than those of alcohol, if as bad. At least, it won't give you cirrhosis of the liver.

"Its effect is almost certainly not addictive within current official definitions of the word."

Found in Coma

Irish writer Brendan Behan was rushed to Dublin hospital in diabetic coma yesterday after he failed to turn up at Trinity College for debate with Randolph Churchill. He regained consciousness and was said to be comfortable.

The move followed by one day a request from the new military-backed regime for a continuation and strengthening of relations between the two countries.

U.S. officials said that consultations on all U.S. aid programs to South Viet Nam will take place in Saigon with the appropriate officials of the government.

AID SLOWED

Important aid programs had been slowed down during the last month of President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime which fell in a military coup last Friday.

LONDON (AP) — Britain Thursday recognized the new government of South Viet Nam, reliable government sources said.

These informants said the British ambassador in Saigon, Gordon Etherington-Smith, has informed the government of Nguyen Ngoc Tho of the fact.

'Quizzed Like Criminal'

Singer Peeved at Victoria

By DON GAIN

Eartha Kitt says she will never enter Canada through the port of Victoria again.

The singer passed through Patricia Bay airport Tuesday morning on her way to a supper club engagement in Vancouver. Yesterday at a press conference in Vancouver she complained about treatment by an immigration officer at Victoria.

"He quizzed me as though I was a criminal," she said. "He wanted to know what I was going to do in Canada, how long I would be working and how much money I would be making."

"He was not rude, but very officious. I have never encountered anything like it at any border and I have visited most countries in the world."

Head immigration officer

Harry Tobin at Sidney said last night that he was sorry Miss Kitt felt the way she did about Victoria, but there was no reason for her to feel that way.

"I have thoroughly investigated this situation," he said, "and I find that she and her party had only a regular routine customs and immigration examination. This apparently was resented by Miss Kitt and her party."

HOME LOSES ONE

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's Conservative government lost a seat in Parliament Thursday in a byelection that boosted the opposition Labor Party's political prospects.

Labor candidate Will Howie, running in the Bedfordshire industrial city of Luton, was elected by a handsome margin, while Sir Alec himself was running for a seat in Parliament in the heavily Conservative Scottish country district of Kinross-West Perthshire.

NO DANGER

Results in the riding where the recently appointed prime minister is running will not be announced until this morning. He was not regarded as in any danger of defeat, but the margin of his victory will be taken as a barometer of the Conservative party's political popularity.

Howie, the winner in Luton, in central England, had a margin of 3,740 votes over Conservative John Fletcher-Cooke.

WINS HANDILY

Howie polled 21,108 votes to 17,338 for Fletcher-Cooke. Liberal candidate Niall MacKenzie received 5,001 votes and the Communist party candidate, Dr. Anthony Chater, polled 430.

In the 1959 general election, Dr. Charles Hill, running as a "Liberal and Conservative" candidate, polled 27,153 votes to 22,124 for Labor candidate C. R. Fenton.

DISTRIBUTION

With the Luton decision, distribution of seats in the 630-seat House of Commons now becomes: Conservatives and allies 338, Labor 258, Liberals 7, independents 1, vacant 6.

The Conservative loss at Luton was interpreted by many observers as a shot in the arm to the Labor party and seemed to rule out any chances of a snap general election being called by the Conservative government in the near future.

NOON TODAY

But the complete picture of Thursday's voting and its ramifications will not be known until the results in Kinross-West Perthshire are disclosed at about noon today.

Big Jump Likely In Lung Cancer

TORONTO (CP) — Lung cancer in women will increase alarmingly in the next 10 years, a United States cancer researcher predicted Wednesday night.

Dr. Oscar Auerbach supported his theory with the fact that the modern girl is "smoking prolifically and inhaling."

The doctor, associate professor of pathology at New York Medical College, said five times more men than women die of lung cancer, but the disease is increasing among women.

Dr. Auerbach said smoking was a major cause of lung cancer, which would be widely accepted if the cigarette industry did not have so much money riding on the continued and increasing use of tobacco.

Car Victim Brought To Victoria

DUNCAN — A man knocked down by a car near Jubilee and Government here last night was rushed to King's Daughters Hospital and later transferred to St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria.

Cy Dougan, about 70, of Cobble Hill, was apparently crossing the street when he was hit by a car which police said was driven by William Robinson of Duncan.

Arrive in Canada

Survivors of Crash Praise Plane Crew

MONTREAL (CP) — Sixty-four passengers who walked away unhurt from the crash of a TCA jet airliner in London arrived in Montreal by air Thursday night.

Many expressed praise for the crew of the crashed DC-8 and gratitude for a lucky escape when they entered a lounge at Montreal's International Airport shortly after 7:15 p.m. Their substitute aircraft landed just before 7 p.m.

The 34 Montrealers aboard were welcomed enthusiastically by relatives and friends.

Thomas E. Taylor of Vancouver said he was "glad to get out in one piece."

"I landed in a cabbage patch with a couple of dogs, 11 canaries and a cat," he said. "It shook me up a little but everyone was cool and calm and there was no panic."

ACHES AND PAINS

"Lots of the passengers are feeling their aches and pains today,"

BOTTLE FOR BABY

Just moments before the crash, a stewardess had brought in a bottle of milk for a baby seated just ahead of him.

"When the plane hit, the husband said 'oh the baby,' his wife was saying 'let me get out, let me get out with the baby!'"

APPLIED BRAKES

Bert Seaman of Port Arthur, Ont., said the first indication passengers had of the impending crash came after the aircraft hit a big patch of fog on takeoff. The pilot applied the brakes and reversed the engines.

"We knew we were coming down somewhere," Mr. Seaman said. "Thank God we hit the cabbage patch."

IN ONE PIECE

Spirit of Moscow Missing?

Mr. K Beats U.S. with Olive Branch

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev glibbed so often at the United States in toasts at a Kremlin reception Thursday night that U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler questioned him about it.

"Where is the spirit of Moscow?" Kohler asked calmly. "I don't hear any of it. I haven't heard any toasts I could drink to."

Khrushchev looked somewhat startled. He turned to Kohler and asked him to offer a toast. Kohler declined the invitation, saying it was Khrushchev's party.

"The American ambassador refuses to make a toast," he said.

"The spirit of Moscow is the spirit of peace with all countries who want to live with us... I drink a toast to the spirit of Moscow, peace for all the world."

The exchange came at a gathering of about 2,000 in the congress hall celebrating the 46th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution. Khrushchev told the gathering the Soviet Union will become the world's No.

1 nation in seven years. He warned that an American attack on Cuba would bring retaliation against U.S. allies closest to Russia. He said he is sure there eventually will be an agreement to heal the rift between the Soviet Union and Red China.

"If the capitalist world raises weapons against us, you will see what will happen," he said.

His forecast on the rise of the Soviet Union to world supremacy was made in his opening toast.

"From a poor country we have come a long way to become the second country in the world. We give capital to another seven years, then we will be first. It is as inevitable as the sunrise. There is no doubt about it."

Didn't Retreat One Inch On Berlin, Says Rusk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk emphasized Thursday that the United States considers that it did not retreat a single inch in this week's dispute with Russia over procedures on the Berlin highway. (See also Page 3.)

Rusk told reporters that despite what Soviet Premier Khrushchev may say, "our convoy went through in exact accordance with procedures that have been in effect a long time."

The adherence to, or deviation from, such seemingly trivial details as whether a troop carrier tailgate is lowered to help the Russians count the men inside is considered vital by diplomats. A change in procedures could conceivably lead to a breakdown of the position of one side or the other in Berlin.

"We cannot accept any change in procedures on the autobahn," Rusk said.

Gordie Howe Foiled Again

Record-breaking 545th goal again eluded Detroit's Gordie Howe (9), here taking puck away from New York's Howie Glover (14), but Howe did make the pass for winning goal as Red Wings edged Rangers,

1-0, in National Hockey League game in Detroit. Others in play are Detroit's Larry Jeffrey (20) and Norm Ullman (7), and Phil Goyette (20) of New York. —(AP Photofax)

That Goal Won't Come Despite Howe's Heroics

Gordie Howe is taking a long time to get that record-breaking 545th National Hockey League goal but the big rightwinger is still the man who makes Detroit Red Wings tick.

Winless in their last four games, the Wings had to defeat New York Rangers last night to retain fourth place. The Rangers kept Howe scoreless, with a piece of luck plus a trip, but it was Howe who made a perfect pass in the 13th minute of the last period to set up Parker MacDonald for the shot which brought the Wings a 1-0 win.

Howe, who scored three goals in the first two games this season, has been held to one in his last nine games. One that counted, that is. Two goals were called back for rules infractions.

Last night, he missed his record-breaking in the last minute when he took a shot at the open New York net and watched helplessly as the puck hit a post and stayed out.

A few minutes earlier, however, Howe was tripped by Harry Howell when he was skating in front of the New York nets with the puck.

Howe drew a penalty, and the Wings scored on a power play just as the coaches diagram it on a blackboard.

Bill Gadsby whipped a pass from the blue line to Howe in the left corner and Howe blazed the puck right in front of Jacques Plante to the waiting MacDonald.

Plante made 36 stops, 19 in the first period, in an effort to end a New York losing streak at three games. But Terry Sawchuk handled all 25 shots perfectly for his 53rd NHL shutout, only one shy of the record set by George Hainsworth.

In other games last night, line goaltending by Glenn Hall gave Chicago's leading Black Hawks a 2-2 tie with Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs overcame a 3-0 first-period deficit to nab Boston Bruins, 4-3.

Orlando Kurtenbach, Guy Gendron and Andy Hebenton gave Bruins a healthy lead in the first period before Don Simmons, substituting for the sore-toed Johnny Bower, settled down. George Armstrong and Al Stanley got the game close in the second period.

The game was featured by two separate fights late in the first period with Bruins getting unofficial verdicts in both. Rookie - defenceman Bob McDermott came off a clear winner over Frank Mahovlich in one bout while Boston's Ted Green, rated as one of the best knuckle - throwers in the NHL, practically undressed Ken Douglas in the other set-to.

Eric Nesterenko's second-period goal with Canadiens trying to increase a 2-1 lead with a power play ended the scoring in Montreal and gave the Hawks a new club record - an unbeaten streak of 10 games.

Nesterenko stole the puck from Dave Balon and drove in to score while Howie Young was serving a penalty.

Boxing 'Rather Unsavory' - Marquess of Queensberry

LONDON (AP)—The 12th Marquess of Queensberry, whose great-grandfather sponsored the rules of boxing, said Thursday night he holds a low opinion of the sport.

"Rather unsavory," the 33-year-old peer called it in a television interview.

The Marquess of Queensberry rules were brought out in 1867. They were devised by a boxing fan named John G. Chambers. John Douglas, the eighth Marquess, merely permitted the use of his name as sponsor.

The present Marquess said skiing was his favorite sport.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Not later than May 30, 1964, all entrants in any boxing competition sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada will have to wear head-gear.

Safety was the theme of the annual meeting of the Canadian Boxing Committee which met here Thursday at the national convention of the AAU and the decision was made that head-gear would be a necessary part of equipment at the Canadian amateur championships and Olympic trials, to be held in Vancouver not later than May 30, and in all future competitions from the date of those events.

Only one change was made in the chairmanship of the national committees of the AAU, Pete Beach of Toronto replacing Ken Twigg, also of Toronto, in the track and field branch.

President Jack Davies, welcoming the 55 delegates, told them that the AAU "has shown remarkable progress and development, particularly in the last year or two."

He said registrations have increased and the number and quality of records in "measurable sports" have reached an all-time high this year with almost 500 submitted.

"The world rankings," he said, "now contain Canadian names where they never appeared before. Our athletes have won more medals in international competitions during the past year than ever before in the same space of time."

Sprinter Harry Jerome of Vancouver was one of four men named to the AAU Hall of Fame. Eric Coy of Winnipeg, 1938 Empire Games shotput champion, was also named for his athletic ability and Ken Yost and G. Sydney Halter, both of Winnipeg, for their contributions as officials.

Colonist Cup Tonight

Victoria High Tyees and Oak Bay meet tonight at Royal Athletic Park, fighting for the Colonist Cup and the city high school soccer championship.

Tyees have won the title for the past two years, beating Mount View Hornets, 3-2, in 1961 and downing Oak Bay by the same score last year.

Inch of Snow Covers Calgary Field As Chilly Prelude to Grid Playoff

From CP and UPI reports

Arrival of winter in Alberta may give Calgary Stampede some headaches Saturday when they open their two-game, total-point Western Football Conference semi-final against Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Calgary's McMahon Stadium, along with the rest of the province, was blanketed with about an inch of snow yesterday. And while blizzards will be brought in to clear the field if necessary, the chances are good that the two clubs will battle on a frozen, slippery surface.

Both playoff games will be seen live on television Saturday: Ottawa vs. Montreal on Channel 3 and 6 at 10 a.m., and Calgary vs. Saskatchewan at 1:30 p.m. on Channel 8.

Threat of cold weather hasn't deterred fans, and, with only 500 tickets remaining, a sellout is almost certain.

Stampede have been made eight-and-a-half-point favorites for the first game despite the fact that in three scheduled games the Stampede won, 17-16, and were tied, 4-4 and 33-33.

Reason for the unexpectedly large spread was probably the respective health of the two clubs.

With Eagle Day scheduled to return to his quarterbacking post, the Stampede are reportedly in better shape than for any time since the third game of the season.

SOME MISSING

Riders, however, will be definitely without linebacker Dick Schnell and may be without three other regulars. Star Canadian tackle Bill Clarke and Canadian defensive half-back Gene Wasiuk both have knee injuries and halfback Billy Gray, who has been out for 30 days because of injuries, is still a doubtful starter.

Defensive-tackles Joe Lewis and Nick Mumley have been brought in by the Riders to fill any gap but both would be playing their first game of Canadian football. Ron Lancaster will start at quarterback.

CLARK BACK

At Ottawa, where the Rough Riders meet Montreal in the sudden-death Eastern Conference semi-final, it was reported Alouettes would have halfback Don Clark back in action. This news prompted Ralph Sazio, coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, to state he wouldn't be surprised if it was the Alouettes his team would face in the final.

Alouettes plan to rush quarterback Russ Jackson, a battle plan which seemed to leave Ottawa coach Frank Clair unworried.

"They've been trying that all season," he said, pointing out that Jackson threw four touchdown passes against Alouettes two weeks ago.

Clair also said he expected halfbacks Ron Stewart and Jack Nichols would be able to play.

A muddy field was forecast for the game and it was announced—that an overtime period, 10 minutes each way, would be played if the game was tied after 60 minutes. If it was tied after the overtime period, sudden-death extra overtime will be played.

EDMONTON (CP)—Not since 1959 when British Columbia Lions reached the Western Football Conference playoffs for the first time have so many football attendance records been shattered.

And with Lions assured of a berth in the WFC, more are expected to go down the drain.

Overall WFC attendance in 1963 was 789,426 with Lions, Calgary Stampede and Saskatchewan Roughriders setting season attendance marks. While figures are available, officials believe the 1963 league turnout to be the highest ever.

Only in 1959 when Lions and Winnipeg Blue Bombers set attendance marks has over-all league totals approached the current campaign levels.

RECORD TOTAL

B.C., which finished on top for the first time since entering the league in 1954, attracted a record 251,712 fans in eight league games in Vancouver. This easily surpassed a mark of 243,604 set in 1959 when Lions finished third. It brought the over-all attendance at B.C. home games, including a 1959 playoff game, to 2,071,702.

Included in Lions' 1963 attendance was a single league game mark of 38,659 set Sept. 21 when B.C. met Calgary Stampede. This topped a turnout of 34,722 established Aug. 31, 1959.

Also expected to fall this year is the single-game playoff mark of 34,342 fans set Oct. 31, 1959, in the first playoff game involving B.C. at Vancouver.

However, one mark that will be safe this year is the record Grey Cup turnout of 39,319 established Nov. 26, 1955, in Vancouver when the Canadian final made a good showing," Taylor said.

"We found this was due to the fact that many of them arrived on a plane just before tournament time and tried to play a course without really getting a chance to know it."

"For this tournament, we want all the foreign players to get here a week early and that will give them enough time for some socializing with their own ethnic groups and then they can have three solid days of practice before the tournament opens. We think this will mean much improved golf by the foreign group."

Tournament sponsors said it will be televised nationally in the United States and may be shown in Europe via Telstar if made.

Work-for-Pay Abandoned

COURTENAY—Mayor William Moore is writing to federal Health and Welfare Minister Judy LaMarsh, protesting a cut in welfare payments.

Mr. Moore said Courtenay received only the 40 per cent provincial government welfare payments for three men who worked under his work-for-welfare plan in August.

He had planned to see Provincial Secretary and Social Welfare Minister Wesley Black in Victoria this week but was unable to see him.

Mr. Moore said the city paid a $76 difference for August but could not continue to do this and was abandoning the work-for-welfare plan.

PARKSVILLE—Thomas S. Floyd is campaign chairman for the annual Poppy Fund campaign of Mt. Arrowmith Branch No. 49, Royal Canadian Legion, and arrangements are well under way for Poppy Day, Saturday.

Parksville Realty office will again be the headquarters for the tag day and Legion members will be assisted by members of the Legion Ladies Auxiliary.

A pre-sale of wreaths and sprays has been conducted this week and a canvass of outlying areas will be conducted in conjunction with the tag day Saturday.

DUNCAN — Police court: George William Andrew Hulsh, Duncan, disobeying stop light, driving with learner's license unaccompanied by adult, driving without insurance, common assault causing bodily harm, total fine $61, and bound over to the district court.

Renewed Work Near on Fisheries Plan

QUALICUM BAY—Rerouting of a 132,000-volt power line over Horne Lake to the Albernias has entered its final phase, and clears the way for completion of the proposed Federal Fisheries Development at the lake.

Establishment of the line, expected in about two weeks, will end a year of "temporary" service caused when a transmission tower linking the main B.C. Power transmission line from Campbell River with the Albernias collapsed into the lake.

NOT AGAIN

Officials decided to avoid any future similar mishap by rerouting the line from around the end of the lake to cross the lake itself at two points.

One of these, near the lake-end, bridges a gap of 5,664 feet and is now in place.

WEIGHTY LINES

Cable being used is aluminum with a 37-strand steel core, and each of the six lines being strung weighs eight tons.

The Federal Fisheries Development at Horne Lake has been delayed by the power project—and the project itself was made necessary by the fisheries development.

LAKE LOWERED

The fisheries project for artificial spawning lowered the lake level and led to collapse of the powerline tower.

Now, as soon as power is restored through the new line, the project can continue to completion of the Horne Lake Dam, an essential feature of the fisheries program.

Moore Critical Of Procedure

COURTENAY — Mayor W. C. Moore has criticized city council for the procedural handling of a radio station's request to broadcast council meetings.

Aldermen W. B. Gordon, G. L. Hobson, A. H. Strachan and K. Willis supported a motion that radio station CFPC's request on tape recording should require unanimous consent of council.

Mayor Moore said the motion was the worst ever to go through council and created a dangerous precedent for a democratic body. One person should never be able to block the wishes of six other councillors on any issue, he said.

A subsequent motion to allow tape recording on a two-month trial basis had a majority support of Ald. Harry Harris, Hobson, F. S. Williams and the mayor, but went down to defeat from lack of the required unanimity.

Principal arguments against tape recording council meetings centred on opinions it wasn't necessary, discussion would become restricted or stilted and the question, "Why should reporters have it so easy?"

Ald. Harris said people speaking on public business should be open to full public report.

Ald. Williams favored Mr. Harris' proposal of a trial period and reminded councillors they were public servants. "If we're not prepared to accept that we shouldn't be in office," he said.

Mayor Moore said that after two or three meetings council would have forgotten the microphone was there.

Slow March Will Have Lilt

FULFORD HARBOR — The Remembrance Day parade at Fulford Harbor on Salt Spring Island is going to have a new lilt to it, thanks to the HMCS Naden band.

It seems the martial music for the parade consists of records played on a public address system. After 10 years the discs are getting wonky and what's more they're much too fast.

"What we need is a slowed down march so we old vets can keep in step," said Alfred Dane of the Royal Canadian Legion, who is organizing the parade this year for the Fulford branch.

Naden band came to the rescue recently when they taped a set of marches in slow time—under the direction of bandmaster Lieut. Tudor Jones and sent the tape to the Fulford Legion for Monday's parade.

"Some of us are veterans of not two but three wars. We even have one member who was in the Sudan campaign

When the veterans of many battles march together Monday they will do so with a singleness of purpose and a singleness of step.

Car Wrecked, Power Cut, Fire Started by Mishap

CAMPBELL RIVER — Douglas Godkin wrecked his car, blacked out the whole Campbell River district and started a bush fire — and got out of it all personally with possible fractures of a rib and shoulder blade.

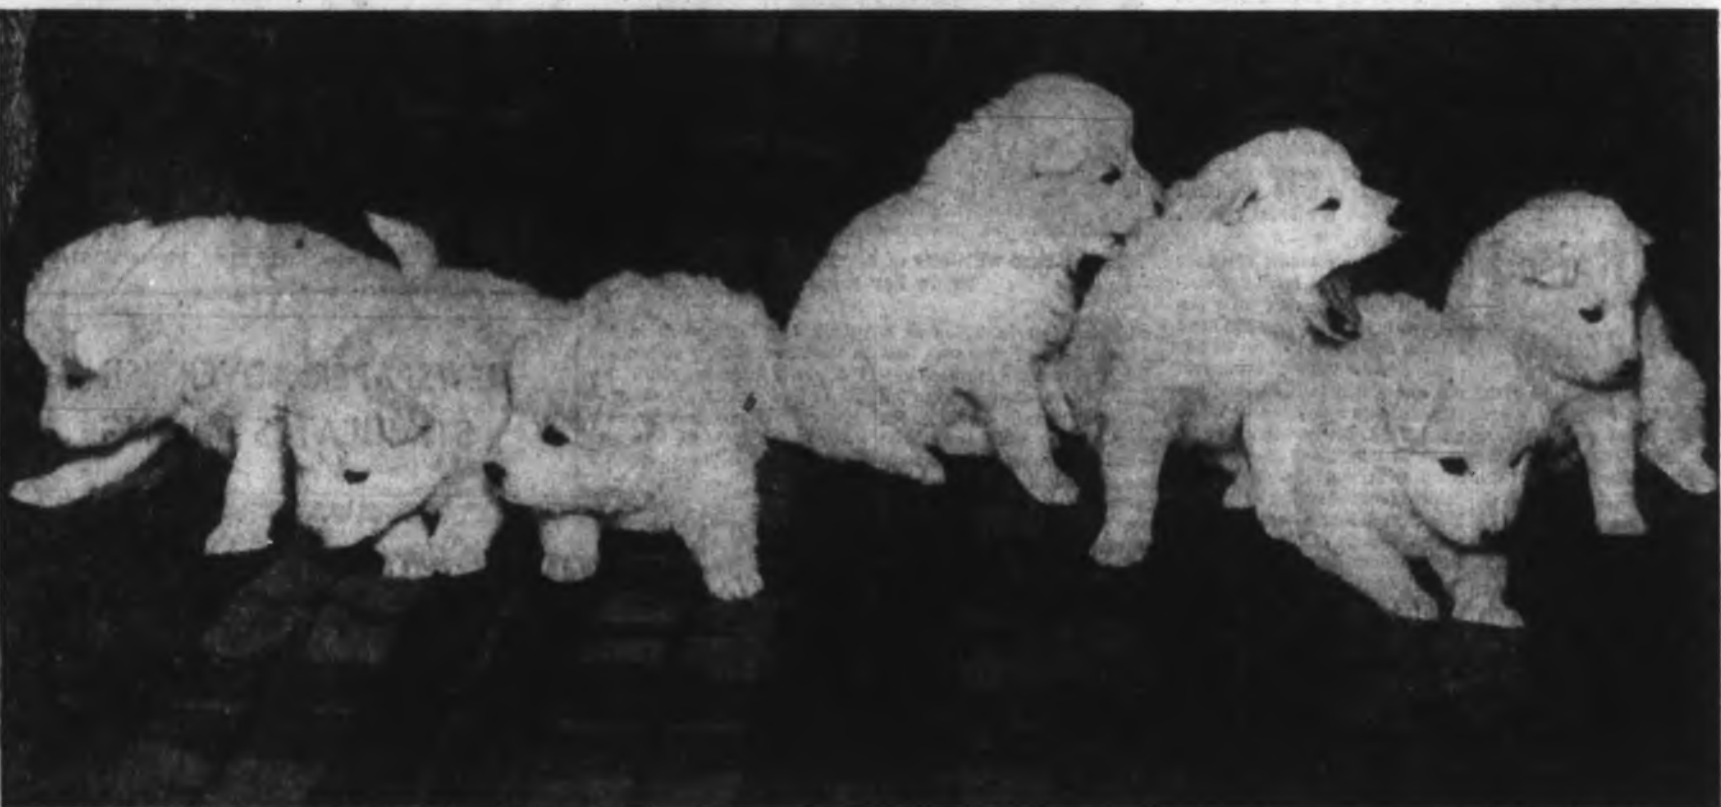

The Elk Falls Co. construction worker from Alberta was heading for the mill at 1 a.m. Thursday when his vehicle went out of control, smashed into a power pole, breaking some of the lines. With live sparks all around him, Mr. Godkin managed to crawl out and flag down a passing driver who took him to the mill.

On the way to the RCMP station to report the accident, Mr. Godkin and a fellow worker saw the hot wires had set fire to bush near his car.

Although power was out in the district for two hours and 10 minutes, emergency systems at the hospital and at the mill swung into action immediately.

Conviction Quashed

Brother Granted New Trial

VANCOUVER—The B.C. Court of Appeal Thursday quashed the conviction of David Mitchell, 20, for capital murder in the rifle-slaying of his brother, and ordered a new trial.

Mitchell, of the Shell Beach Indian reserve near Ladysmith on Vancouver Island, was convicted by an assize court jury in Nanaimo last Sept. 6 and sentenced to be hanged Dec. 17.

The five Appeal Court judges, in a unanimous decision, said the trial judge, Mr. Justice H. A. MacLean, had failed to properly direct the jury on circumstantial evidence, on how drunkenness affected capital versus non-capital murder, and on provocation.

The accused's younger brother, Harvey, was slain in a shooting incident following a quarrel over a girl last February.

Mr. Justice MacLean failed to relate evidence of drink and provocation to the basic element of the crown's case, the Appeal Court said. For conviction on a charge of capital murder, the court must find the slaying was deliberate and with intent, it said.

Harvey Mitchell died Feb. 17 with three bullets in his body.

Ferry to Continue Temporarily

The Barkley Sound ferry service is continuing on a temporary basis pending the outcome of negotiations for a new government subsidy, highways department officials said this week.

The ferry is operated by Alberni Marina Transport, and until Nov. 1 this year, received a highways department subsidy amounting to $10,000 a year.

When the agreement came up for renewal the company said it would have to have $58,000 a year in order to continue.

The department rejected the company's bid but has entered into negotiations for a settlement.

A highways official said negotiations are continuing and that the company has agreed to operate on a week-to-week basis until a settlement is reached.

Big Estate Sold At Shoal Harbor

The 19-acre North Saanich waterfront estate where Mrs. George R. Peacock spent her childhood was sold this week to a family in California.

The sale price was not disclosed, but it was generally known that the property was offered on the market at $135,000. Name of the new owner was not given by the Sidney real estate firm of Gordon G. Hulme Ltd., which handled the transaction.

AT SHOAL HARBOR

The estate, known as The Latch, at Shoal Harbor, was last owned by the family of Eric Philbrook, who has Philbrook's Boat Works at 2324 Harbor Road.

The house was built in 1927 by the late W. U. Copeman, the father of the wife of B.C.'s present lieutenant-governor. The estate was later owned by former lieutenant-governor W. C. Nichols and was visited by the Duke of Windsor at the time he was the Prince of Wales.

FOURTEEN ROOMS

The main residence has 14 rooms, including seven bedrooms and five bathrooms. There is a gardener's cottage on the premises.

A spokesman for the Sidney real estate firm said yesterday that the estate was "sold to a California family as an investment for a trust estate." There are no immediate plans for development but the main residence will be offered for leasing, he said.

Sportsmen Expected To Move In

Odds are dollars to doughnuts that a new public access at Cordova Bay will become a favorite boat launching site. The corporation of Saanich recently purchased two lots at Agate Lane for use as a public access to the beach.

Conversion of the 80-foot waterfront property under the winter works program is expected to be completed in about a week.

Sports fishermen will probably move in as soon as the workmen move out.

Anti-Theft Conference

Small retail merchants loath to play Santa Claus to shoplifters are especially invited to a meeting of the retail merchants group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce at noon Tuesday in the Dominion Hotel.

Merchants will see a short film and hear a talk by Archibald Logan of Eaton's.

No Haircut Wednesday? Ridiculous, Says McLean

Ald. J. L. W. McLean said yesterday it is "ridiculous" back to the tourist trade, he said that no one can get a haircut on Wednesday in Victoria because all local barber shops must be closed on that day.

The present situation is not only an inconvenience to local residents but a serious draw-

Commenting on the petition submitted by 27 out of 33 city barber shops, asking for a change from Wednesday to Monday closing, Ald. McLean said the city should consider rescinding the present bylaw.

This would give the barbers the option to close or open as they wish within the broader provincial and federal regulations, city manager Dennis Young said.

Ald. McLean said it would be up to the barbers themselves to work out an arrangement of opening and closing days that best suited the area and segment of the public they serve.

MAYOR AGREES

Mayor R. B. Wilson agreed and added that withdrawal of civic regulations would not mean that barbers could not close. He said hours-of-work regulations would provide protection for employees.

Finance committee agreed to recommend that city council rescind the bylaw, thus removing the last remaining local controls on store hours. It noted that there was a general trend away from such regulations.

The man who is at the centre of the current dispute over barber shop hours, Al Principe of the Mayfair barber shop, will present a brief to council at its meeting next Thursday. He was charged coffee. Cecily Collins checking a TV show. Janet Tweed planning a party. Ken Burkholder looking for a book.

Road Jobs Would Prove Lack of Discrimination

Opposition Leader Strachan yesterday challenged the government to prove to Cowichan-Newcastle residents that they aren't being discriminated against for repeatedly re-electing him.

He also vowed to undertake a policy of "unceasing harassment" of the highways department for major expenditures on three important roads within his constituency.

ACCEPTS PROTESTATIONS
Mr. Strachan said he personally accepts the protestations of government spokesmen that his riding is not discriminated against on highway matters.

But he pointed out that in spite of dire need there has not been a major highway project in the riding for 10 years.

BUCKLE DOWN
So if the government wants to prove to his constituents that there really isn't discrimination they could buckle down to meet a backlog of necessary reconstruction.

Mr. Strachan said the reconstruction projects which are most pressing in Cowichan-Newcastle are the Duncan-Lake Cowichan road, the Cedar road which connects the Trans-Canada Highway with Harmer, and the Crofton road.

DANGEROUS BOTTLENECKS
They are dangerous and they are bottlenecks to industrial efficiency, he said.

Reconstruction of the roads is fully justified by the number of major industries which they serve and which pour significant sums into the provincial treasury, Mr. Strachan continued.

IGNORE AT PERIL
He acknowledged a degree of priority to Island road projects which provided access to an area for the first time, but added, "we ignore at our peril the base on which our economy is built."

"Without being parochial about it I think we've been patient long enough. "Just as I harassed public works for a new courthouse I will unceasingly harass the highways department for these roads."

Hospital Vote Slated

LADYSMITH — Hospital administrator Ian Freddie said a money bylaw for the $124,000 hospital addition here will be held Dec. 5, in conjunction with the municipal election.

The $124,000 is the share for the taxpayers in the Ladysmith Hospital Improvement District, but the total cost will be $288,000.

The project provides for construction of a shell for 50 beds but at present only 11 beds will be added, enlarging the present capacity to 43 beds.

Original date for the money bylaw had been set for Sept. 23, but it had to be postponed because of the provincial election.

Trustees Told

School TV Worth It

DUNCAN — Although educational television might still be a long way off, trustees and school principals of the Cowichan School Board recently witnessed the demonstration given by John E. Matthews, educational TV consultant of the B.C. Telephone Company from Vancouver.

Mr. Matthews said educational TV is widely accepted in European countries and in the United States, and the Kamloops school district is considering accepting the newest method of teaching.

63 PER STUDENT

The consultant told officials and principals here the Kamloops district includes 6,600 students at 14 schools, and the cost for the TV service would be $3 per student, or $21,000 for the district per year.

Mr. Matthews said his company would install the system and maintain it and the district will have to operate it and pay an annual fee.

NOT SHAREABLE

The cost is not shareable, he said. The B.C. Telephone pioneered ETV three years ago and at UBC it is part of education today.

He said as it is very difficult to obtain the necessary frequencies, cable transmission has been found to be the best solution and one centrally located studio could serve schools as far away as 30 miles.

LEARN AS WELL

Mr. Matthews said some of the advantages are the improvement of quality of education and students learn at least as well as ordinary classroom pupils. He said the school district could employ some of the best possible teachers without boosting the overall education cost.

He said "ETV provides a better quality of instruction because teachers specially trained to teach in special areas, such as music, art, dramatic, science and physical education are able to reach more children more often."

No Changes Likely For Beer Parlors

NANAIMO—Nanaimo beer received official notification from Victoria.

"We will have a meeting here after we get notification, and what will probably happen is that the hotel owners will get together to set a district time.

The situation would be chaotic if every hotel set its own times." The change announced Wednesday will allow hotel owners to set their own times for opening between 9 a.m. and midnight 11:15 p.m. They have not yet

Youth Tells Court Of Car Thefts

A 17-year-old youth is awaiting sentence in custody after pleading guilty yesterday to nine charges of car theft.

Robert Duff, no fixed address, admitted the offences to city Magistrate William Ostler. He had been transferred to open from juvenile court. A juvenile officer testified whole city observes both the Sunday, with special services, as well as the actual Remembrance Day on Monday, when the whole city turns out for the annual parade.

Poppies are already to be seen in clusters in most shop windows and the local branches of the Royal Canadian Legion are carrying out their plan for the sale of poppies.

POOL EFFORTS

This year Branch 256 and 257, Royal Canadian Legion, have pooled their efforts.

They carried out a house-to-house poppy fund canvass last night and had previously circulated the Nanaimo district to let home-owners expect their visit.

HELPS LIVING

Dick Winkelman, secretary of the Mt. Benson branch said "The wearing of the poppy honors the war dead and helps the living. Many veterans do not get disability pensions and the Poppy Fund enables these men to receive aid."

"Veterans do not have to be members of the Legion, in fact 75 per cent of those helped are not. The money raised from poppy sales can not be used for any other Legion purpose and is kept separate from any other branch funds."

LONDON (AP) — A British medical magazine suggests it might be a good idea to legalize the use of marijuana.

Possession and importation of marijuana are against the law in Britain, where it is listed as a dangerous drug. Taking issue with this legal view, the medical magazine The Lancet asserts in its latest issue that the effects of marijuana are probably no worse than those of alcohol, if as bad. At least, it won't give you cirrhosis of the liver. "Its effect is almost certainly not addictive within current official definitions of the word."

Arrive in Canada

Survivors of Crash Praise Plane Crew

MONTREAL (CP) — Sixty-four passengers who walked away unharmed from the crash of a TCA jet airliner in London arrived in Montreal by air Thursday night.

Many expressed praise for the crew of the crashed DC-8 and gratitude for a lucky escape when they entered a lounge at Montreal's International Airport shortly after 7:15 p.m. Their substitute aircraft landed just before 7 p.m.

The 34 Montrealers aboard were welcomed enthusiastically by relatives and friends.

Thomas E. Taylor of Vancouver said he was "glad to get out in one piece."

"I landed in a cabbage patch with a couple of dogs, 11 canaries and a cat," he said. "It shook me up a little but everyone was cool and calm and there was no panic."

ACHES AND PAINS

"Lots of the passengers are feeling their aches and pains today," Stan Perry of Trenton, Ont., said he "had to give that pilot credit."

BOTTLE FOR BABY

Just moments before the crash, a stewardess had brought in a bottle of milk for a baby seated just ahead of him.

"When the plane hit, the husband said 'oh the baby.' His wife was saying 'let me get out, let me get out with the baby!'"

APPLIED BRAKES

Bert Seaman of Port Arthur, Ont., said the first indication passengers had of the impending crash came after the aircraft hit a big patch of fog on takeoff. The pilot applied the brakes and reversed the engines.

"We knew we were coming down somewhere," Mr. Seaman said. "Thank God we hit the cabbage patch."

"I feel lucky to be down in one piece."

Among those getting off at Montreal was Mrs. Frank G. Swanson, wife of the vice-president and publisher of the Calgary Herald. She is staying with friends here.

Eartha Kitt says she will never enter Canada through the port of Victoria again.

The singer passed through Patricia Bay airport Tuesday morning on her way to a supper club engagement in Vancouver. Yesterday at a press conference in Vancouver she complained about treatment by an immigration officer at Victoria.

"He quizzed me as though I was a criminal," she said. "He wanted to know what I was going to do in Canada, how long I would be working and how much money I would be making."

"He was not rude, but very officious. I have never encountered anything like it at any border and I have visited most countries in the world."

HOME LOSES ONE

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's Conservative government lost a seat in Parliament Thursday in a by-election that boosted the opposition Labor Party's political prospects.

Labor candidate Will Howie, running in the Bedfordshire industrial city of Luton, was elected by a handsome margin, while Sir Alec himself was running for a seat in Parliament in the heavily Conservative Scottish country district of Kinross-West Perthshire.

NO DANGER

Results in the riding where the recently appointed prime minister is running will not be announced until this morning. He was not regarded as in any danger of defeat, but the margin of his victory will be taken as a barometer of the Conservative party's political popularity.

Howie, the winner in Luton, in central England, had a margin of 3,749 votes over Conservative John Fletcher-Cooke.

WINS HANDILY

Howie polled 21,108 votes to 17,359 for Fletcher-Cooke. Liberal candidate Malvern Benjamin received 5,001 votes and the Communist party candidate, Dr. Anthony Chater, polled 490.

In the 1959 general election, Dr. Charles Hill, running as a "Liberal and Conservative" candidate, polled 27,153 votes to 22,134 for Labor candidate C. R. Fenton.

DISTRIBUTION

With the Luton decision, distribution of seats in the 630-seat House of Commons now becomes: Conservatives and allies 358, Labor 258, Liberals 7, independents 1, vacant 6.

The Conservative loss at Luton was interpreted by many observers as a shot in the arm to the Labor party and seemed to rule out any chances of a snap general election being called by the Conservative government in the near future.

NOON TODAY

But the complete picture of Thursday's voting and its ramifications will not be known until the results in Kinross-West Perthshire are disclosed at about noon today.

The victims were not immediately identified.

The crash occurred in driving rain at Flood, B.C., a small village which the highway skirts three miles west of here.

Spirit of Moscow Missing?

Mr. K Beats U.S. with Olive Branch

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev glibed so often at the United States in toasts at a Kremlin reception Thursday night that U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler questioned him about it.

"Where is the spirit of Moscow?" Kohler asked calmly. "I don't hear any of it. I haven't heard any toasts I could drink to."

Khrushchev looked somewhat startled. He turned to Kohler and asked him to offer a toast. Kohler declined the invitation, saying it was Khrushchev's party.

"The American ambassador refuses to make a toast," he said.

"The spirit of Moscow is the spirit of peace with all countries who want to live with us... I drink a toast to the spirit of Moscow, peace for all the world."

The exchange came at a gathering of about 2,000 in the congress hall celebrating the 46th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Khrushchev told the gathering the Soviet Union will become the world's No.

1 nation in seven years. He warned that an American attack on Cuba would bring retaliation against U.S. allies closest to Russia. He said he is sure there eventually will be an agreement to heal the rift between the Soviet Union and Red China.

"If the capitalist world

raises weapons against us, you will see what will happen," he said.

His forecast on the rise of the Soviet Union to world supremacy was made in his opening toast.

"From a poor country we have come a long way to become the second country in the world. We give capitalism another seven years, then we will be first. It is as inevitable as the sunrise. There is no doubt about it."

As to "the spirit of Moscow," the reference was to the atmosphere of amity that marked conclusion of the Soviet U.S. British negotiations in the Soviet capital last July on a treaty banning all nuclear tests except those underground.

Didn't Retreat One Inch On Berlin, Says Rusk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk emphasized Thursday that the United States considers that it did not retreat a single inch in this week's dispute with Russia over procedures on the Berlin highway. (See also Page 3)

Rusk told reporters that despite what Soviet Premier Khrushchev may say, "our convoy went through in exact accordance with procedures that have been in effect a long time."

The adherence to, or deviation from, such seemingly trivial details as whether a troop carrier tailgate is lowered to help the Russians count the men inside is considered vital by diplomats. A change in procedures could conceivably lead to a breakdown of the position of one side or the other in Berlin.

"We cannot accept any change in procedures on the autobahn," Rusk said. Khrushchev claimed that soldiers in the U.S. convoy yielded to Russian demands regarding procedures. This has been categorically denied by U.S. authorities.

Vancouver Echoes To Shots

VANCOUVER (CP) — Shots echoed through Vancouver's east-end streets Thursday night as police chased a careering taxi from which a gunman fired at them with one pistol while holding the other at the driver's head.

The gunman commandeered the cab after an abortive attempt to hold up a hotel beer parlor in nearby Burnaby. During the wild chase, he warned cabbie Bob Rathbone, 25: "If you get stopped buster, you're dead."
